New Frontiers in Middle East Security Lenore G. Martin, 1999 Using an interdisciplinary approach to chart a new course for national security research and policy making in the turbulent region of the Middle East this book is from the author of The Unstable Gulf 1984    Regional Security in the Middle East Pinar Bilgin, 2004-09-09 This is an accessible yet critical analysis of regional security in the Middle East Using a non realist approach Bilgin provides a comprehensive study of the past present and future of security in the region She also considers the question of identity formation explaining how and why various regional representations came into being and explor    Regional Security in the Middle East ,

Assessing the Impact of U.S.-Israeli Relations on the Arab World Lenore G. Martin, 2003    The Gender Imperative Betty A. Reardon, Asha Hans, 2012-12-06 The book asserts that human security derives from the experience and expectation of human well being which depends on four essential conditions a life sustaining environment the meeting of essential physical needs respect for the identity and dignity of persons and groups protection from avoidable harm and expectations of remedy from them The book demonstrates their integral relationship to human security Patriarchy being the germinal paradigm from which most major human institutions such as the state the economy organised religions and social relations have evolved the book argues that fundamental inequalities must be challenged for the sake of equality and security The fundamental point raised is that expectation of human well being is a continuing cause of armed conflict which constitutes a threat to peace and survival of all humanity and human security cannot exist within a militarised security system The editors of the book bring together 14 essays which critically examine militarised security in order to find human security pathways show ways in which to refute the dominant paradigm indicate a clear gender analysis that challenges the current system and suggests alternatives to militarised security With a mix of female and male feminist scholar activists as contributors the book makes an important contribution to a new discourse on human security    Thinking International Relations Differently Arlene Tickner, David L. Blaney, 2013-03-01 A host of voices has risen to challenge Western core dominance of the field of International Relations IR and yet intellectual production about world politics continues to be highly skewed This book is the second volume in a trilogy of titles that tries to put the international back into IR by showing how knowledge is actually produced around the world The book examines how concepts that are central to the analysis of international relations are conceived in diverse parts of the world both within the disciplinary boundaries of IR and beyond them Adopting a thematic structure scholars from around the world issues that include security the state authority and sovereignty globalization secularism and religion and the international an idea that is central to discourses about world politics but which in given geocultural locations does not necessarily look the same By mapping global variation in the concepts used by scholars to think about international relations the work brings to light important differences in non Western approaches and the potential implications of such differences for the IR discipline and the study of world politics in general
