Feminism, Film, Fascism Susan E. Linville, 1998 German society's inability and/or refusal to come to terms with its Nazi past has been analyzed in many cultural works including the well known books Society without the Father and The Inability to Mourn In this pathfinding study Susan Linville challenges the accepted wisdom of these books by focusing on a cultural realm in which mourning for the Nazi past and opposing the patriarchal and authoritarian nature of postwar German culture are central concerns namely women's feminist autobiographical films of the 1970s and 1980s After a broad survey of feminist theory Linville analyzes five important films that reflect back on the Third Reich through the experiences of women of different ages Marianne Rosenbaum's Peppermint Peace Helma Sanders-Brahms's Germany Pale Mother Jutta Brückner's Hunger Years Margarethe von Trotta's Marianne and Juliane and Jeanine Meerapfel's Malou By juxtaposing these films with the accepted theories on German culture Linville offers a fresh appraisal not only of the films importance but especially of their challenge to misogynist interpretations of the German failure to grieve for the horrors of its Nazi past

Film Criticism, 1990 Media Information Australia, 1995 Gender and German Cinema: German film history Sandra G. Frieden, 1993 International film has received some of its most original impulses from German film makers however the works by women directors in German speaking countries have been largely ignored in spite of the important social political and historical issues they have raised This is the first work to consider the broad spectrum of German cinema through the category of gender These volumes will be standard handbooks in film studies for many years to come
