Y. Leong, 2002 You don't have to look very far these days to see the influence that the film industry of Hong Kong has had on moviemaking around the world Hong Kong film stars such as Jackie Chan, Chow Yun-fat, Jet Li and Michelle Yeoh have become household names headlining Hollywood blockbusters while directors such as John Woo, Tsui Hark and Wong Kar-wai are closing deals in Tinseltown and developing huge international followings Despite achieving such recognition abroad, the luster on Hong Kong's homegrown film industry has faded quite a bit over the past decade However many Hong Kong cinema aficionados who passionately followed the rise of the Hong Kong New Wave during the Eighties and early Nineties only to become increasingly disenchanted since then are now looking to South Korea for Asia's boldest and most innovative films Since 1998 South Korea's local film industry has undergone a remarkable transformation A new generation of Korean moviemakers is revitalizing the industry with bold arthouse productions, big budget actioners, thought provoking dramas and subversive satires In some circles South Korea is even being likened to the new Hong Kong with its film industry on the verge of exploding onto the world stage similar to how the Hong Kong New Wave catapulted the former British colony and its groundbreaking films into the international spotlight Already some Korean films have found success in the North American market arthouse circuit while Korean directors are being courted by major Hollywood studios for lucrative U.S. remake rights Korean Cinema The New Hong Kong is a guidebook for exploring this new and exciting treasure trove of cinema It is the first book of its kind covering this emerging cinematic powerhouse in an easy to read and leisure focused fashion bringing all the sought after information on Korean cinema into one convenient package Within the pages of Korean Cinema The New Hong Kong you will find A brief history of South Korea and its film industry which will help you understand the reasons behind the revolutionary changes in Korean cinema and what is influencing the country's directors A look at the present state of Korea's filmmaking industry and how it resembles the dot com era with the only difference being that these companies are actually making money and lots of it An examination of the characteristics themes and dominant genres of the films in this newest Korean New Wave In depth reviews and commentary of the top ten must see films of this latest Korean New Wave An overview of the top genres of Korean cinema with reviews commentary and notes on availability for the good the bad and the ugly A look at the stars of Korean cinema such as the Korean equivalents to Tom Cruise Han Suk kyu and Julia Roberts Shim Eun ha How moviegoers can go about seeing Korean flicks with English subtitles too So sit back relax and get ready to be introduced to Korean Cinema The New Hong Kong Comments about the book It's designed for people who are in the process of discovering Korean film and it's especially useful for people who are building DVD collections Anthony approaches the industry as a fan of Hong Kong cinema who has gravitated towards Korean films in recent years 266 pages in total so there's a lot of information I'd recommend it Darcy Paquet Koreanfilm.org Screen International correspondent and English language editor for the Korean Film Commission Anthony Leong has taken the study of Asian Cinema to the next level This book helps make sense of Korean cinema It's an authoritative text yet thoroughly entertaining while being the definitive word of this exploding motion pic

The New Korean Cinema Kyung Hyun Kim, 1998 Seoul Stirring, 1994 Korean Cinema, 2008 New Korean Cinema, 2014 The past two decades saw Korean cinema establishing itself as one of the most vibrant national cinemas in the world Scholars have often sought clues in democratization in the early 1990s Yet the overall condition of Korean cinema had remained hardly promising until the late 1990s which urges us to rethink the euphoria over democratization In an effort to find a better account for its stunning and provocative revival this dissertation challenges the custom of associating the resurgence of Korean cinema with democratization and contends that Korean cinema has gained its novelty and vitality above all by confronting the abortive nature of democratic transitions The overarching concern of this study is thus elucidating the piquant tastes of the thematics and the styles Korean cinema has developed to articulate public discontents with recent historical changes Chapter one revisits the New Wave era the late 1980s to the early 1990s and employs the notion of ssitkim mourning to probe how New Wave filmmakers maneuvered between legacies of the democracy movement and public industrial demands and between historical trauma and rapid changes in the wake of democratization Chapter two discusses Korean cinema's reorientations in the second half of the 1990s through films by Lee Chang dong and Hong Sang soo Lee's investment in the non linear time narrative offers a notable instance of renegotiations over national history at a time of troubled historical transition Hong's rediscovery of everyday life without good sense and depth presents an eloquent commentary on the post epic milieu Chapter three adopts Deleuze's notion of the originary to explain how the revenge narrative and the theme of violence in Park Chan wook's films provide a significant critique of the democratized and neo liberalizing milieu where the faculty of action becomes further frustrated Chapter four looks to the Manchurian Western a vernacular hybrid film genre to investigate how the Western has been an integral part of sociocultural formations in South Korea and thereby to demonstrate the need to step beyond restrictive frameworks such as historical and cultural authenticity for a greater understanding of the complex dynamic in transnational uses of popular genres

Movie Migrations Hye Seung Chung,David Scott Diffrient,2015-07-06 As the two billion YouTube views for Gangnam Style would indicate South Korean popular culture has begun to enjoy new prominence on the global stage Yet as this timely new study reveals the nation's film industry has long been a hub for transnational exchange producing movies that put a unique spin on familiar genres while influencing world cinema from Hollywood to Bollywood Movie Migrations is not only an introduction to one of the world's most vibrant national cinemas but also a provocative call to reimagine the very concepts of national cinemas and film genre Challenging traditional critical assumptions that place Hollywood at the center of genre production Hye Seung Chung and David Scott Diffrient bring South Korean cinema to the forefront of recent and ongoing debates about globalization and transnationalism In each chapter they track a different way that South Korean filmmakers have adapted material from foreign sources resulting in everything from the Manchurian Western to The Host's reinvention of the Godzilla mythos Spanning a wide range of genres the book introduces readers to classics from the 1950s and 1960s Golden Age of South Korean cinema while offering fresh perspectives on recent favorites like Oldboy and Thirst Perfect not only for fans of Korean film but for anyone curious about media in an era of globalization Movie Migrations will give readers a new appreciation for the creative act of cross cultural adaptation
