overall may result from having access to counseling and rigorous pre employment screenings EMTs and paramedics are routinely exposed to life threatening incidents and have more health problems than individuals in other occupations PTSD rates in this group are as high as 20 percent PTSD prevalence in this profession is comparable to law enforcement Firefighters conduct paramedic activities and are the first responders to natural disasters Firefighting is a dangerous profession that exposes workers to stressful conditions and traumatic events ranging from threats to their safety and experiencing the devastating effects of catastrophes As a result the prevalence of PTSD in this group can be as high as 20 percent Volunteer firefighters may have even higher rates because they don t have access to the same level of support as career firefighters Healthcare workers especially those working in emergency rooms and intensive care units are also at higher risk For example nurses working in critical care units are more likely to develop PTSD than nurses in other groups In addition while senior level nurses report fewer PTSD symptoms than junior ones they report higher rates of burnout Finally healthcare workers exposed to patients that have experienced violence such as an assault victim are more likely to develop PTSD than surgeons who treat assault victims Rescue workers medical workers and volunteers who act as first responders during disasters witness the aftermath of horrific events and can even become involved in severe traumatic events The prevalence of PTSD in these individuals has been estimated to be between 15 and 30 percent Journalists who work as war correspondents are at higher risk of being injured killed or kidnapped Their lifetime prevalence of PTSD which can be as high as 30 percent reflects their lack of access to support and PTSD treatment options Transit and train operators are frequently exposed to physical threats and witness suicide incidents such as person under train events Exposure to these traumatic and threatening circumstances can be a daily or weekly occurrence Bus drivers are more prone to PTSD because they have more direct contact with the general public than train drivers locked in secure train cabs In these high risk professions the incidence of trauma declines when policies are in place to debrief victims give victims immediate access to counseling and screen for individuals at high risk of having adverse reactions to traumatic conditions

Equity-Centered Trauma-Informed Education Alex Shevrin Venet, 2023-09-01 Educators must both respond to the impact of trauma and prevent trauma at school Trauma informed initiatives tend to focus on the challenging behaviors of students and ascribe them to circumstances that students are facing outside of school This approach ignores the reality that inequity itself causes trauma and that schools often heighten inequities when implementing trauma informed practices that are not based in educational equity In this fresh look at trauma informed practice Alex Shevrin Venet urges educators to shift equity to the center as they consider policies and professional development Using a framework of six principles for equity centered trauma informed education Venet offers practical action steps that teachers and school leaders can take from any starting point using the resources and influence at their disposal to make shifts in practice pedagogy and policy Overthrowing inequitable systems is a process not an overnight change But transformation is possible when educators work together and teachers can do more than they realize from within their own classrooms
