Designing Learning for Multimodal Literacy Fei Victor Lim, Lydia Tan-Chia, 2022-11-30 Designing Learning for Multimodal Literacy addresses the need to design learning for multimodal literacy in a world that is increasingly saturated with print and digital media In the current age communication and interactions on social media are seldom made with language alone but are often accompanied with emojis images and videos making meanings multimodally Young people including children are also increasingly active in making videos of themselves their ideas and their experiences as part of their out of school literacy activities In particular for language teachers the present shifts in our world require that teachers re examine what they teach and how they can meaningfully and effectively teach the students in their classes today At 8 years old Alden created his own rap music video and shared it with the world He wrote his own lyrics and set it against the music he remixed and meshed from a music download site Alden is in your classroom today As his teacher what would you teach him How would you engage him Alden and children like him is the inspiration for why the authors have written this book The changing times and changing learners place a demand on educators to continually reflect on what and how teachers are teaching their students to ensure that learning in school remains relevant relatable and prepares them for the world of the future Lim s book outlines how teachers can design learning for multimodal literacy It is a result of a collaboration between an educational researcher and a curriculum developer and offers practical resources for practitioners but also design principles and considerations based on practice with a range of students to inform and inspire academics and postgraduate students It is poised to contribute to the global conversation and interest on how educators can reflect on the zeitgeist of the digital age and design learning for multimodal literacy     Digital Pedagogy Senad Bećirović,2023-03-01 This book systematically approaches the topic of the relatively new field of digital pedagogy and provides valuable insights for teachers and students education policymakers leaders in education and others whose professional engagement is related to education in modern society It discusses topics including what digital pedagogy involves as well as its main characteristics and significance for the future of education the impact of the coronavirus pandemic on the teaching and learning process digital literacy and digital citizenship development of digital competencies of teachers and the reasons for and challenges of the digital transformation of education systems The findings presented in this book help education policymakers to adopt effective strategies for digitalization of educational institutions Furthermore this book enables experts involved in the development and improvement of curricula to respond well to modern challenges and to adapt them to the modern needs of students society and scientific fields This book also serves as a useful resource for pre service and in service teachers in their development of digital competencies     Integrating Digital Literacy in the Disciplines Lauren Hays,Jenna Kammer,2023-07-03 Digital literacy has become the vital competency that students need to master before graduating This book provides rich examples of how to integrate it in disciplinary courses While many institutions are developing introductory courses to impart universal literacy skills students need to know and creative literacy skills for creating new content discipline specific skills skills needed to succeed within a specific discipline are a vital extension to their learning and ability to apply digital literacy in different contexts This book provides examples of how to integrate digital literacy across a wide variety of courses spanning many domains Rather than a wholly new core institutional outcome digital literacy adds to the development of critical thinking communication problem solving and teamwork skills by building students capacities to assess online information so they can ethically share communicate or repurpose it through the appropriate use of available digital technologies In short it provides the vital digital dimension to their learning and the literacy skills which will be in increasing demand in their future lives Following introductory chapters providing context and a theoretical framework the contributing authors from different disciplines share the digital competencies and skills needed within their fields the strategies they use to teach them and insights about the choices they made What shines through the examples is that regardless of the specificity of the disciplinary examples they offer all readers a commonality of approach and a trove of ideas that can be adapted to other contexts This book constitutes a practical introduction for faculty interested in including opportunities to apply digital literacy to discipline specific content The book will benefit faculty developers and instructional designers who work with disciplinary faculty to integrate digital literacy The book underscores the importance of preparing students at the course level to create and be assessed on digital content as fields are modernizing and delivery formats of assignments are evolving Domains covered include digital literacy in teacher education writing musicology indigenous literary studies communications journalism business information technology strategic management chemistry biology health sciences optometry school librarianship and law The book demonstrates a range of approaches that can be used to teach digital literacy skills in the classroom including Progressing from digital literacy to digital fluency Increasing digital literacy by creating digital content Assessment of digital literacy Identifying ethical considerations with digital literacy Sharing digital content outside of the classroom Identifying misinformation in digital communications Digitizing instructional practices like lab notes and essays Reframing digital literacy from assumption to opportunity Preparing students to teach digital literacy to others Collaborating with other departments on campus to support digital literacy instruction Incorporating media into digital literacy digital media literacy Using digital storytelling and infographics to teach content knowledge Weaving digital literacy throughout the curriculum of a program and with increasing depth

Reading in the Digital Age: Young

Children's Experiences with E-books Ji Eun Kim, Brenna Hassinger-Das, 2019-07-23 This edited book focuses on affordances and limitations of e books for early language and literacy features and design of e books for early language and literacy print versus e books in early language and literacy development and uses of and guidelines for how to use e books in school and home literacy practices Uniquely this book includes critical reviews of diverse aspects of e books e g features and e book uses e g independent reading for early literacy as well as multiple examinations of e books in home and school contexts using a variety of research methods and or theoretical frames The studies of children's engagement with diverse types of e books in different social contexts provide readers with a contemporary and comprehensive understanding of this topic Research has demonstrated that ever increasing numbers of children use digital devices as part of their daily routine Yet despite children's frequent use of e books from an early age there is a limited understanding regarding how those e books are actually being used at home and school As more e books become available it is important to examine the educational benefits and limitations of different types of e books for children So far studies on the topic have presented inconsistent findings regarding potential benefits and limitations of e books for early literacy activities e g independent reading shared reading The studies in this book aim to fill such gaps in the literature Technology Supported Innovations in School Education Pedro Isaias, Demetrios G.
