The Religious and Spiritual Life of the Jews of Medina Haggai Mazuz,2014-07-03 In The Religious and Spiritual Life of the Jews of Medina Haggai Mazuz offers an account of the halakhic character of the Jewish community of Medina in the seventh century CE Making use of a unique methodology of comparison between Islamic and Jewish sources Mazuz convincingly argues that the Jews of Medina were Talmudic Rabbinic Jews in almost every respect Their sages believed in using homiletic interpretation of the Scriptures as did the sages of the Talmud On many halakhic issues their observations were identical to those of the Talmudic sages In addition they held Rabbinic beliefs sayings and motifs derived from the Midrashic literature The Religious and Spiritual Life of the Jews of Medina is a wonderful reference work for Talmudic study Jewish history and Islamic history A must have book for every library Haim Gottschalk Association of Jewish Libraries vol 5 no 3 2015 Mazuz confronts an admirably wide range of Arabic sources from the Qur'an to prophetic biographies and ad th compilations as well as legal and theological works The breadth of the evidence provided to support the conclusion about the religious identity of Medina's Jews is impressive Harry Munt University of York The Review of Rabbinic Judaism vol 19 2016      The Conflict Between Muhammad and the Jewish Tribes of Medina John F. Watters,1970 This thesis represents the result of a close study of the early Arabic sources concerning the long and violent conflict between Muhammad and the three Jewish tribes of Medina the B Qaynuqa B al Nadir and B Qurayzah It is discovered that in his actions against these tribes the Prophet was not acting from a simple anti Jewish bias but in order to protect himself and his community from these potentially very dangerous centers of opposition. Thus the elimination of the Jewish tribes from the oasis is the result of Muhammad's efforts to break up centers of opposition and thereby make secure his own community. In his long struggle with the Jewish tribes Muhammad skillfully isolated the three tribes from each other as well as from their Arab allies and eliminated their dangerous presence one by one beginning with the weakest of the three tribes. The justifications set forth by Muhammad for actions against the Jews are almost without exception political in nature although the Jewish opposition was primarily religious in nature and redress was usually called for under the traditional tribal law. On the rare occasions when the tribal law would not support his actions Muhammad used revelation as justification.

Muslims, Jews and Pagans Michael Lecker, 2021-11-15 Muslims, Jews and Pagans examines in much detail the available source material on the liya area south of Medina on the eve of Islam and at the time of the Prophet Muhammad. It provides part of the necessary background for the study of the Prophet's history by utilizing in addition to the Prophet's biographies various texts about the history, geography and inhabitants of this area. The topics include the landscape especially the fortifications, the delayed conversion to Islam of part of the Aws tribe, the Qub village and the incident of Masjid al ir r in 9 A H. The three appendices deal with historical apologetics pointing to the social context in which the Prophet's biography emerged during the first Islamic century.

Patronate And Patronage in Early And Classical Islam Monique Bernards, John Abdallah Nawas, 2005 This book deals with patronate and patronage wal of early and classical Islam. Though Webster's Third has the term mawla the concept remains very difficult to come to grips with. Fourteen contributions by renowned scholars analyze the social and cultural phenomenon of wal from various angles. As a whole the book conveys what we presently know about patronate and patronage during the first four centuries of Islam. Inasmuch as the contributors have used different methods from a close rereading of primary sources to the application of social theory and quantitative analysis the book additionally offers an overview of methodologies current in the field of Islamic Studies.

Muhammad and the Jews of Medina A. J. Wensinck, 1975 The Formation of Islam Jonathan P. Berkey, 2003 Jonathan Berkey's 2003 book surveys the religious history of the peoples of the Near East from roughly 600 to 1800 CE. The opening chapter examines the religious scene in the Near East in late antiquity and the religious traditions which preceded Islam. Subsequent chapters investigate Islam's first century and the beginnings of its own traditions the classical period from the accession of the Abbasids to the rise of the Buyid amirs and thereafter the emergence of new forms of Islam in the middle period. Throughout close attention is paid to the experiences of Jews and Christians as well as Muslims. The book stresses that Islam did not appear all at once but emerged slowly as part of a prolonged process whereby it was differentiated from other religious traditions and indeed that much that we take as characteristic of Islam is in fact the product of the medieval period.

Muhammad and the People of the Book Sahaja Carimokam, 2010-09-17 Muhammad and the People of Book by Sahaja Carimokam asks the question what was the nature of Muhammad's relationship to non Muslims particularly Jews and Christians and how did it change over time This work is based on a chronological reading of the chapters of the Qur'an supplemented with Muslim commentary literature and biographical materials on the life of Muhammad Carimokam traces Muhammad's evolving religious viewpoint based on his borrowings of primarily Jewish and some Christian traditional apocryphal materials He shows how Muhammad's inaccurate and anachronistic rendition of Jewish traditional literature ensured that the Jews would reject him as a Prophet This rejection lead to his ultimatum to the Jews early in the Medinan period of the Qur'an and culminated with his call to Jihad against all non Muslims including those Jews and Christians who refused to acknowledge his Prophethood The origins of takfir declaring Muslims to be non Muslims are considered Comparisons are made of moderate and traditional interpreters of the Qur'an Historical critical issues regarding the background provided by Muslim historical propaganda is considered in one chapter The book concludes with a controversial issue for the interpretation of Islamic law in the 21st century based on the actual canonical practices of Muhammad
