Song of Songs is one of the most fascinating and controversial biblical books and played an essential role in the shaping of European spirituality and culture. Combining in a unique way a sensual and deeply lyrical celebration of love with a well established tradition of Christian allegorical interpretation, this text is crucial to both the Middle Ages and the early modern period. It held a particular appeal for poets devoted not only to religious verse but also to love poetry. The Song of Songs and Its Tradition in Renaissance Love Lyric is the first systematic and wide ranging investigation of the multifaceted use of the Song of Songs in Renaissance love lyric poetry with specific attention to Italian, French and especially English poetic production. At the same time, this investigation is embedded into a narrative that comprises two initial chapters devoted to medieval poetry and to Francesco Petrarca, representing an unprecedented attempt to trace the role of the Song of Songs in the rise and development of the European love lyric following its path or rather one of its paths from the medieval origins of this tradition to the end of the sixteenth century. The picture of the general impact of the Song of Songs in the development of the European love lyric is combined with in depth analysis of key works by specific authors including Dante Alighieri, Francesco Petrarca, Torquato Tasso, Marguerite de Navarre, Anne de Marquets, Clément Marot, Richard Barnfield, Edmund Spenser, William Shakespeare, John Donne, Elizabeth Melville and Aemilia Lanyer, promoting a contextualization of their significance within a new interpretative framework. While the comparative standpoint characterizing this study fosters a deeper comprehension of the evolution of the European love lyric, its multidisciplinary approach, which considers the Song of Songs as the centre of a web of dynamics pertaining to the fields of literature, philosophy, theology and religious and cultural history, contributes to the understanding of the thought and spirit of ages crucial to the shaping of European culture.

Communication Yearbook 23 Michael Roloff, 2012-03-22. Communication Yearbook 23 originally published in 2000 includes discussions about the relationship between communication and the emotional processes. The authors do not confine the reviews to research conducted in a single context but instead draw upon scholarship that informs about shame and guilt in intimate family, organizational and public discourse. Also explored is literature on compliance resistance and the emotional reactions that accompany resistance. Other reviews address issues involving communication about sexual harassment in the workplace, cross cultural influences on management styles and the mass media's role in encouraging change in body shape. Offering a tremendous variety of in depth analyses of communication scholarship in a broad array of research areas, this is a vital sourcebook for researchers, teachers and students alike.
