Love In Shadow:

Love's Shadow Ada Leverson, 2019-12-09 In Love's Shadow Ada Leverson delves into the intricate web of romantic relationships exploring themes of love, jealousy, and social pretense. Set against the backdrop of early 20th century London, this novel employs a sharp wit and an eloquent prose style that emphasizes levity amidst darker emotional undercurrents. Leverson's keen observations reveal the complexities of modern love and the societal expectations surrounding it, crafting a narrative that is both entertaining and thought-provoking. Enriched by the vibrant social milieu of her contemporaries in the Bloomsbury Group, Ada Leverson, a prominent figure in the literary circles of her time, was known for her intimate connections with notable writers and artists, including Oscar Wilde, who greatly influenced her work. Her personal experiences with love and friendship provided a fertile ground for the nuanced portrayal of relationships in Love's Shadow. Leverson's unique perspective as a woman navigating the rigid frameworks of Edwardian society allows her to infuse the narrative with authenticity and insight, reflecting the tensions between desire and decorum. I highly recommend Love's Shadow to readers who appreciate sharp social commentary wrapped in delightful prose. Leverson's ability to intertwine humor with profound observations about love makes this novel a compelling read for anyone fascinated by the complexities of human relationships. Love's Shadow Paul A. Bové, 2021-01-12 A case for literary critics and other humanists to stop wallowing in their aestheticized helplessness and instead turn to poetry, comedy, and love. Literary criticism is an agent of despair, and its poster child is Walter Benjamin. Critics have spent decades stewing in his melancholy. What if instead we dared to love poetry, to choose comedy over Hamlet's tragedy, or to pursue romance over Benjamin's suicide on the edge of France of Europe and of civilization itself? Paul A. Bové challenges young lit critters to throw away their shades and let the sun shine in. Love's Shadow is his three-step manifesto for a new literary criticism that risks sentimentality and melodrama and eschews self-consciousness. The first step is to choose poetry. There has been, since the time of Plato, a battle between philosophy and poetry. Philosophy has championed misogyny while poetry has championed women like Shakespeare's Rosalind. Philosophy is ever so stringent; try instead the sober cheerfulness of Wallace Stevens. Bové's second step is to choose the essay. He praises Benjamin's great friend and sometime antagonist Theodor Adorno, who gloried in writing essays, not dissertations and treatises. The third step is to choose love. If you want a Baroque hero make that hero Rembrandt who brought lovers to life in his paintings Putting aside passivity and cynicism would amount to a revolution in literary studies Bov seeks nothing less and he has a program for achieving it The story of Spenser's Faerie queene, ed. by J.E.
