New Science Journalists

Edwin Harvey Hadlock

New Science Journalists:

The New Science Journalists Ted Anton, 1995 In The New Science Journalists Editors Ted Anton and Rick McCourt have gathered the best of the new science writing into one illuminating volume What is new about the work of these journalists lies in the scale pace and uses of their writing These writers bridge the gap between members of the science community and a society hungry for news about their work acting not only as reporters and commentators but also as investigators researchers detectives and storytellers The editors have showcased three very different kinds of writers The first group explores the complexities of our universe with childlike wonder and includes Diane Ackerman John Seabrook and Elisabeth Rosenthal The second group relentless investigators who expose the inside stories of scientific research includes Deborah Blum Robert Capers Eric Lipton and John Crewdson And the third group of writers who dig through data uncovering trends that researchers themselves miss features Timothy Ferris E O Wilson James Gleick and many more These writers are helping to broaden the very boundaries of science by making complex topics such as chemistry physics biotechnology and ecology accessible and entertaining to readers of every kind Combining superb prose and compelling subjects The New Science Journalists examines some of the most fascinating issues of our times

The Craft of Science Writing Siri

Carpenter, 2024-11-05 A deeply sourced inclusive guide to all aspects of science writing with contributions from some of the most skilled and award winning authors working today Science writing has never been so critical to our world and the demands on writers have never been greater On any given day a writer might need to explain the details of AI analyze developments in climate change research or serve as a watchdog helping to ensure the integrity of the scientific enterprise At the same time writers must spin tales that hook and keep readers despite the endless other demands on their attention How does one do it The Craft of Science Writing is the authoritative guide With pieces curated from the archives of science writers go to online resource The Open Notebook this book explores strategies for finding and shaping story ideas pitching editors and building a specialty in science writing It delves into fundamental skills that every science writer must learn including planning their reporting identifying interviewing and quoting sources organizing interview notes and crafting stories that engage and inform audiences This expanded edition includes new introductory material and nine new essays focusing on such topics as how to establish a science beat how to find and use quotes how to critically evaluate scientific claims how to use social media for reporting and how to do data driven reporting In addition there are essays on inclusivity in science writing offering strategies for eradicating ableist language from stories working with sensitivity readers and breaking into English language media for speakers of other languages Through interviews with leading journalists offering behind the scenes inspiration as well as in depth essays on the craft offering practical advice readers will learn how the best science stories get made from conception to completion Contributors Humberto Babilio Siri Carpenter Jeanne Erdmann Dan Ferber Tina Casagrand Foss Geoffrey Giller Laura Helmuth Jane C Hu Alla Katsnelson Roxanne Khamsi Betsy Ladyzhets Jyoti

Science journalism has perhaps never been so critical to our world and the demands on science journalists have never been greater. On any given day a science journalist might need to explain the details of genetic engineering, analyze a development in climate change research or serve as a watchdog helping to ensure the integrity of the scientific enterprise. And science writers have to spin tales seductive enough to keep readers hooked to the end despite the endless other delights just a click away. How does one do it? Here for the first time is a collection of indispensable articles on the craft of science writing as told by some of the most skillful science journalists working today. These selections are a wealth of journalistic knowledge from The Open Notebook, the online community that has been a primary resource for science journalists and aspiring science writers for the last decade. The Craft of Science Writing gives you a crew of accomplished encouraging friends to whisper over your shoulder as you work. In these pages you'll find interviews with leading journalists offering behind-the-scenes inspiration as well as in-depth essays on the craft offering practical advice including: How to make the transition into science writing; How to find and pitch a science story to editors; How to wade through a sea of technicalities in scientific papers to spot key facts; How to evaluate scientific and statistical claims; How to report on controversial topics; How to structure a science story from short news to long features; How to engage readers in a science story and hold their attention to the end.

This is the official text for the National Association of Science Writers. In the eight years since the publication of the first edition of A Field Guide for Science Writing, much about the world has changed. Some of the leading issues in today's political marketplace—embryonic stem cell research, global warming, health care reform, space exploration, genetic privacy, germ warfare—are informed by scientific ideas. Never has it been more crucial for the lay public to be scientifically literate. That's where science writers come in. And that's why it's time for an update to the Field Guide, already a staple of science writing graduate programs across the country. The academic community has recently recognized how important it is for writers to become more sophisticated, knowledgeable, and skeptical about what they write. More than 50 institutions now offer training in science writing In addition mid career fellowships for science writers are growing giving journalists the chance to return to major universities for specialized training We applaud these developments and hope to be part of them with this new edition of the Field Guide In A Field Guide for Science Writers 2nd Edition the editors have assembled contributions from a collections of experienced journalists who are every bit as stellar as the group that contributed to the first edition In the end what we have are essays written by the very best in the science writing profession These wonderful writers have written not only about style but about content too These leaders in the profession describe how they work their way through the information glut to find the gems worth writing about We also have chapters that provide the tools every good science writer needs how to use statistics how to weigh the merits of conflicting studies in scientific literature how to report about risk And ultimately how to write

Scientists and Journalists Sharon M. Friedman, Sharon Dunwoody, Carol L. Rogers, 1986 STEM Education Approaches and Challenges in the MENA Region Alhashem, Fatimah, Pacheco-Guffrey, Heather, Boivin, Jacquelynne Anne, 2023-08-03 In the Middle East and North Africa MENA region recent long term policy plans emphasize the ever increasing need to transition to 21st century skills and achieve sustainable development goals by preparing highly qualified nationals with credentials in STEM fields relevant to the current and future needs of the labor market Yet despite multiple educational reforms and substantial resources national and international indicators of student performance still demonstrate insignificant improvement in MENA students achievement in STEM subjects STEM Education Approaches and Challenges in the MENA Region contributes to the existing STEM literature by exploring factors that influence student participation in STEM in MENA countries The book also identifies the gaps in STEM education research in MENA countries and presents the current practices and challenges Covering key topics such as gender equity school administration and education systems this premier reference source is ideal for administrators policymakers researchers scholars academicians practitioners instructors and students

Health and Science Journalism in the Twenty-First Century Tamar Ginossar, Sayyed Fawad Ali Shah, 2025-02-15 This edited volume explores the evolving practices and essential role of health and science journalists as they cover topics like conflict displacement and global pandemics Amid a changing media landscape and new communication technologies journalists in various countries report facing similar key challenges stressors and threats to professionalism Contributors identify and explore these shared challenges including funding cuts unrealistic expectations for productivity public mistrust and disregard for facts and increasingly polarized coverage and they note that these challenges are further intensified for journalists living and working in the Global South Factors like the COVID 19 pandemic and geopolitical conflict continue to disrupt economic and social systems and increase global inequities including health outcomes making the role of health and science journalists more crucial than ever Contributors to this volume provide diverse perspectives and methodologies across a spectrum of communities and regions unpacking the numerous roles that journalists and media organizations play during crises with chapters investigating topics including newsroom experiences perceived influences on their professional identities and the use of AI in journalism Ultimately this book illustrates the dramatic changes and new challenges to health and science journalism in the twenty first century and highlights the resilience and adaptability of these journalists as they navigate unprecedented challenges to inform the public Scholars of journalism communication public health sociology and political science will find this book of particular interest

The Routledge Handbook of Scientific Communication Cristina Hanganu-Bresch, Michael J. Zerbe, Gabriel Cutrufello, Stefania M. Maci, 2021-12-20 Given current science related crises facing the world such as climate change the targeting and manipulation of DNA GMO foods and vaccine denial the way in which we communicate science matters is vital for current and future generations of scientists and publics The Routledge Handbook of Scientific Communication scrutinizes what we value prioritize and grapple with in science as highlighted by the rhetorical choices of scientists students educators science gatekeepers and lay commentators Drawing on contributions from leading thinkers in the field this volume explores some of the most pressing questions in this growing field of study including How do issues such as ethics gender race shifts in the publishing landscape and English as the lingua franca of science influence scientific communication practices How have scientific genres evolved and adapted to current research and societal needs How have scientific visuals developed in response to technological advances and communication needs How is scientific communication taught to a variety of audiences Offering a critical look at the complex relationships that characterize current scientific communication practices in academia industry government and elsewhere this Handbook will be essential reading for students scholars and professionals involved in the study practice and teaching of scientific medical and technical communication

Reporting on Risks Albert Okunade, Jim Willis, 1997-07-30 Health and safety risk issues such as AIDS hazardous waste disposal airline disasters and health care policy frequently dominate the news and require a new level of sensitivity and expertise on the part of journalists This volume focuses on a study of the trends in risk reporting and offers guidelines on how to report the dangers of these risks more accurately It also examines the ethical implications of reporting risks to the public This work will be of interest to those studying communication specifically in the areas of ethics in journalism and public health and medical reporting

From Yahweh to Yahoo! Doug Underwood, 2002-04-02 Presenting religion as journalism's silent partner From Yahweh to Yahoo provides a fresh and surprising view of the religious impulses at work in the typical newsroom by delving into the largely unexamined parallels between religious and journalistic developments from the media of antiquity to the electronic idolatry of the Internet

Communicating Uncertainty Sharon M. Friedman, Sharon Dunwoody, Carol L. Rogers, 2012-10-12 Exploring the interactions that swirl around scientific uncertainty and its coverage by the mass media this volume breaks new ground by looking at these issues from three different perspectives that of communication scholars who have studied uncertainty in a number of ways that of science journalists who have covered these issues and that of scientists who have been actively involved in researching uncertain science and talking to reporters about it In particular Communicating Uncertainty examines how well the mass media convey to the public the complexities ambiguities and controversies that are part of scientific uncertainty In addition to its new approach to scientific uncertainty and mass media interactions this book distinguishes itself in the quality of work it assembles by some of the best known science communication scholars in the world This volume continues the exploration of interactions between scientists and journalists that the three coeditors first documented in their highly successful volume Scientists and Journalists Reporting Science as News which was used for many years as a text in science journalism courses around the world

Press Correspondence and Journalism Edwin Harvey Hadlock,1910 Twenty Years of Education for Journalism Sara Lawrence Lockwood Williams,1929 Parliamentary Assembly Documents 2002 Ordinary Session (First Part) , Volume I Council of Europe, Making a Difference: Volume I and II Sasha A. Barab,Kenneth E. Hay,Nancy Butler Songer,Daniel T. Hickey,2017-09-05 William Wordsworth 1770-1850 needs little introduction as the central figure in Romantic poetry and a crucial influence in the development of poetry generally This broad ranging survey redefines the variety of his writing by showing how it incorporates contemporary concepts of language difference and the ways in which popular and serious literature were compared and distinguished during this period It discusses many of Wordsworth's later poems comparing his work with that of his regional contemporaries as well as major writers such as Scott The key theme of relationship both between characters within poems and between poet and reader is explored through Wordsworth's construction of community and his use of power relationships A serious discussion of the place of sexual feeling in his writing is also included
