Salmon Limited, 1992-12-01 Torrey, 1901 Environmental Impact Statement, Carson National Forest Plan, 1986 Carson National Forest (N.F.), Proposed Plan, 1986 Governing Resources in a Changing Environment Mangku Purnomo, 2011 Until 1998 Indonesia was ruled by an authoritarian regime under which natural resources were exploited excessively so that resources governance was not appropriate anymore dealing with sustainability issue Throughout the contemporary reform process with the decentralization of power via local and regional autonomy natural resources are no longer dominated by direct state power only but also managed by more actors at various levels of society To employ the concepts of political ecology new institutionalism livelihood strategy and social sustainability the research showed that spatial production of Upland Bromo have always been dominated by state actors in order to establish the control over land and people In the other hand the contemporary environmental changes socially and physically

coincidentally lessen the availability and productivity of the resources which in turn has affected the local people's livelihoods leading to the increasing struggle for resources. As a result three kinds of new local resources governance namely multi institutional relationship, bilateral institutional relationship and personal relationship based resources governance are formed. In association with the sustainability issue, these new local resources governance was not really sustainable, signalling by negative value in indicators analysed ability to develop sustainability bridge the sustainability and maintenance sustainability. This research gives clear explanation that transformation of regime from authoritarian to democratic in developing countries do not always have significance impact in promoting sustainable resources governance.
