New Discoveries In China:

New Discoveries in China Danielle Elisseeff, Vadime Elisseeff, 1983 Not so long ago China's civilization and art were only known to us through artifacts preserved in Western museums and the origins of these treasures were often relatively obscure. During the past thirty years however systematic excavation projects have been carried out in China. Isolated and previously unexplored sites have yielded fascinating treasures. It has been possible to rediscover the tombs of emperors, aristocrats and officials in their fullest splendor with all of their mortuary furnishings. Thus we are able to cite the mausoleum of Qin Shi Huangdi, the mortuary retinue at Yangjiawan, the winged horse of Wuwei, the tombs at Mawangdui, the frescoes in Tang tombs, the silver hoard of Hejiacum, the tombs of the monarchs of Zhongshan and the bronzes and bells from Leigudun. These discoveries are extremely valuable because it has been possible to establish dates, clarify historical information and enrich our knowledge of China's past. This book will present an overview of all recent research and an inventory of these numerous and meaningful discoveries. In order to perform this task properly the authors who are internationally recognized specialists visited China several times during the past few years and they have relied upon the most recent research and publications. All of the items appearing in illustration within this book were discovered at archeological sites in China. Some of them have been exhibited during major expositions of Chinese art and others have been reproduced for the first time outside China. The appendices include a list of the principal archeological sites in China, a chronology of the principal discoveries since 1950 and a bibliography consisting of recent published sources. These are vital points of reference and resources for specialists and connoisseurs alike.

Mysteries of Ancient China Jessica Rawson, 1996 Illustrated with one hundred and eighty five color images and including a comprehensive series of essays by leading Chinese and European scholars this volume summarizes current thinking about the archaeology and the history of the religious and social development of ancient China.

The Archaeology and Politics of Food and Feasting in Early States and Empires Tamara L. Bray, 2007-05-28 This volume examines the commensal politics of early states and empires and offers a comparative perspective on how food and feasting have figured in the political calculus of archaic states in both the Old and New Worlds. It provides a cross cultural and comparative analysis for scholars and graduate students concerned with the archaeology of complex societies, the anthropology of food and feasting, ancient statecraft, archaeological approaches to micro political processes and the social interpretation of prehistoric pottery.

Successful Business Dealings and Management with China Oil, Gas and Chemical Giants Henry K. H. Wang, 2014-01-10 This book focuses on doing businesses successfully with China oil, gas and chemicals companies with real business cases on business management and contract negotiations all under one theme. Drawing on the author's extensive experiences and knowledge of the China oil, gas and chemicals industries the book presents a comprehensive and practical guide to the China oil industry structure and major Chinese oil companies. It analyses

China's oil gas and chemicals markets and its growth into the largest oil consumption market in the world. It also examines energy security concerns and mitigation strategies to diversify crude import sources. The book also analyses the key domestic and international players in China including the largest state multinational and national oil companies. It looks at the largest China oil gas and chemical companies and analyses their profile, business strategies, leaders with relevant case studies. It then examines successful engagement, negotiation and management with the China giants. The book illustrates with business case studies on successfully negotiating and managing business relations to foster trust and promote cooperation as well as the risks and rewards. Business leaders, universities, business schools and government agencies will appreciate the book with its in-depth knowledge and analysis of the China oil gas and chemical industries together with relevant business cases.

The China Journal of Science & Arts, 1924 Made in China Elizabeth O'Brien Ingleson, 2024-03-19 Elizabeth Ingleson explores the roots of bilateral trade between the United States and China. Telling the story of the 1970s US activists and entrepreneurs who pressed for access to China's vast labor market. Ingleson shows how not just Chinese reform but also US deindustrialization fueled a dramatic unanticipated shift in global capitalism.

As one of the eighteen field specific reports comprising the comprehensive scope of the strategic general report of the Chinese Academy of Sciences this sub report addresses long range planning for developing science and technology in the field of marine science. They each craft a roadmap for their sphere of development to 2050. In their entirety the general and sub group reports analyze the evolution and laws governing the development of science and technology. They describe the decisive impact of science and technology on the modernization process. They predict that the world is on the eve of an impending S-T revolution and call for China to be fully prepared for this new round of S-T advancement. Based on the detailed study of the demands on S-T innovation in China's modernization the reports draw a framework for eight basic and strategic systems of socio economic development with the support of science and technology. They work out China's S-T roadmaps for the relevant eight basic and strategic systems in line with China's reality. They further detail S-T initiatives of strategic importance to China's modernization and provide S-T decision makers with comprehensive consultations for the development of S-T innovation consistent with China's reality. Supported by illustrations and tables of data the reports provide researchers, government officials and entrepreneurs with guidance concerning research directions, the planning process and investment. Founded in 1949 the Chinese Academy of Sciences is the nation's highest academic institution in natural sciences. Its major responsibilities are to conduct research in basic and technological sciences to undertake nationwide integrated surveys on natural resources and ecological environment to provide the country with scientific data and consultations for government's decision making to undertake government assigned projects with regard to key S T problems in the process of socio economic development to initiate personnel training and to promote China's high tech enterprises through its active engagement in these areas New Discoveries in China: Encountering History Through Archeology by Danielle and Vadime Elisseeff Danielle Elisseeff,1985
