New Facts Of Life For Women:

The Real Facts Of Life Margaret Jackson, 2005-08-04 During the last twenty years feminist research into the history of sexuality has made important contributions to the theoretical understanding of the relationship between sexuality and male power When sexology became established as a science feminists had for many years been engaged in a struggle to change male sexuality by waging campaigns against male sexual violence and abuse of women and children by challenging the institutions of marriage and prostitution and by asserting in theory and in practice the right to female sexual autonomy Despite the excellent research published in this important and fascinating aspect of feminist history there are still gaps in our knowledge The Real Facts of Life aims to fill these gaps Why and when did sexuality become an important political issue for the 19th century feminist What was the history of campaigns against double standards of sexual morality Why were feminists so divided in their views about sexual freedom and its relationship to women s emancipation The analysis of these issues illuminates past and present feminists ideas and theories about sexuality Margaret Jackson s main aims in The Real Facts of Life are to make a contribution towards understanding the history of the struggle for female sexual autonomy to provide a revolutionary feminist analysis of the social construction of sexuality and its relationship to male power and to provide a critique of sexology and the male defined concept of sexual liberation

Resources in Education , 1994-05 The Work/Life Collision Barbara Pocock, 2003 Longer working hours insecure jobs child care declining birth rates parental leave the mummy track the success or failure of feminism the levels of passion vitriol despair and guilt these subjects engender attest to the importance Australians place on them and rightly so Their effects go beyond how we feel they affect vital economic and demographic trends The Work Life Collision grounded in thorough quantitative and qualitative research analyses how these factors affect each other in particular the collision of work and care and its implications for how we live Pocock demonstrates how the existing work care regime that shapes how we live and work has high social costs for mothers fathers families and those who want to be both workers and carers She weighs the hidden costs of how we live and work now costs that can be measured in bedrooms kitchens workplaces and streetscapes and in our declining birth rate and embedded gender inequality The Work Life Collision goes further than just explaining our growing anxiety about quality of life despite the evidence of unmatched material wealth Pocock proposes ways in which a new work care regime can be built through the redistribution of working hours the rehabilitation of degraded and insecure part time jobs a new system of leave from paid work and better support for mothers fathers and all kinds of dependants She guides us through the real experiences of Australian households and points to a uniquely Australian solution to a fairer world
