Disseldorp, 2012-02-05 This book outlines the basic principles needed for enjoyable and effective parenting which focus on preventing problems using encouragement preparation communication and teaching skills Modelling healthy behaviour giving responsibility and arranging stimulating activities are of equal importance Children thrive on lots of positive attention and nurturing It is very important that we socialise our loved ones so that they can behave appropriately in different environments and successfully navigate school work and life generally This book provides vital information about positive and effective ways to influence children to co-operate It will also talk about managing common difficult areas imparting beneficial values and setting limits It dispenses with the need for material rewards and challenges the commonly accepted notion of obedience Parents can be shown how to maintain an authoritative style whilst developing a happy fun relationship with their children The techniques presented are very helpful for improving relationships in general Carole believes that we need to focus on the type of human beings we want to raise right from the beginning and to put strategies in place to move in the right direction If we want to raise happy confident caring self disciplined independent stable well mannered responsible competent and successful people we need to educate ourselves on the best way to achieve this Carole's aim in writing this book is to let parents know that parenting doesn't have to be a chore. We can look after ourselves and raise wonderful children at the same time. Parenting needn't be about sacrificing our own particular needs. Effective parenting does not come naturally unless our own parents practised high quality parenting. Even if the parenting we received was lacking we can still change our style and find parenting much easier, successful and more fulfilling. It's never too late. Family life can be tremendously satisfying and rewarding providing a balanced lifestyle is achieved and specific parenting skills are understood and consistently used. Self care essentials and time management ideas will be suggested in this book. Not only will parents and carers gain confidence in their ability to parent positively and successfully but they will learn how to enjoy their time with their children adolescents and spouse or partner. Most parents have good intentions and love their children but haven't learnt and practised the most effective skills of parenting which this unique important book offers. It is primarily aimed at parents and carers of toddlers to teenagers. Caregivers, grandparents, single parents, separated parents and guardians will similarly find it highly beneficial. It is for everyone working in the parenting industry, childcare workers, parent educators, schoolteachers and school counsellors. Unlike many other parenting books this one focuses on the needs of the children and the parents. The majority of parenting books require much self sacrifice on the part of parents which is neither healthy nor desirable. Bringing up children shouldn't be arduous. It should be an enjoyable, enriching experience for the children and parents, mutually satisfying, nurturing and beneficial throughout their lives. This book is written in a way that is easy for parents and carers to digest and apply. This work gives a thorough outline of the necessary ingredients for an enjoyable and fulfilling family life. It is based on principles intended to get families working peacefully and harmoniously which the author has used for over 34 years with the children in her care. She is a mother of 4, a qualified and experienced Parent Educator, Primary Teacher, Childcare Worker and Nanny. She has learnt that you can't give much to your children unless you are immersed in a satisfying lifestyle of your own. Parenting Absolute, 2020-05-18. I have with pleasure to admit that the book is quite captivating.
