

its last messages. Against the frost you have carried in every flower—chrysanthemums and asters you let rot in the vase. Their hearts curl up and litter the table, exposing the stub of pistil, the corona of stamen. You may be wooed again, but you will not be won.

PARTIAL ECLIPSE

A scrap of white through dense hedges—her hair or blouse. Day or night when you pass the porch, she sits between two pillars of paperbacks. At her left hand those unread, at her right the pile mounts through summer until one slides off into the brown needles. The glum face of the cover might mean something as the birds mean more than you are sick of them, how they fly at the slightest noise, your lover who cannot keep his mind on you.

Who are you fooling with this fiction?

She is you, if anyone, since you made her up out of this morning of mere disappointment in him—which means “no point at all”—except in the partial eclipse that drops hooks and horns from leaf shadows, the only spectacle you’re supposed to look at.

Stay in the deep shade of the porch.
 The sun is harmful because the eye trusts it and opens and stays open even after the harm is done.

Partial Eclipse Tony Sanders, 1994 The first winner of the Vassar Miller Prize for Poetry judged by Richard Howard Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Modern American Poetry and the Architectural Imagination Jo Gill, 2023 Modern American Poetry and the Architectural Imagination The Harmony of Forms assesses the relationship between architectural and poetic innovation in the United States across the twentieth century Taking the work of five key poets as case studies and drawing on the work of a rich range of other writers architects artists and commentators this study proposes that by examining the sustained and productive if hitherto overlooked engagement between the two disciplines we enrich our understanding of the complexity and interrelationship of both The book begins by tracing the rise of what was conceived of as modern and often international style architecture and by showing how poetry and architecture in the early decades of the century developed in dialogue and within a shared and often transnational context It then moves on to examine the material aesthetic and social conditions that helped shape both disciplines offering new readings of familiar poems and bringing other pertinent resources to light It considers the uses to which poets of the period put the insights of architecture and vice versa In closing Gill turns to modern and contemporary architects written accounts of their own practice in memoirs and other commentaries and examines how they have assimilated or resisted the practice and vision of poetry Transit Authority Tony Sanders, 2000 In Transit Authority Tony Sanders continues his investigation of contemporary urban metaphysical pathos The book is made up of three sequences that mark the early and late junctures of the twentieth century the first a series of poems that investigate the early part of the century the second meditations based on the 1930s photographs by Berenice Abbott and the third Reckoning in which with spare lyricism Sanders meditates on where this century has brought us He looks with rueful intrigue at a landscape inundated with near misses and has been While it is tempting to turn away from the common predicament his poems quietly urge us to keep looking As the poet concludes though things aren't what they should be according to the map we have to press on in search of our bearings

American Poetry Magazine, 1929 Mythical Narratives in Stesichorus Sofia Carvalho, 2021-11-08 The mythical narratives of Stesichorus provide the earliest surviving examples of poetic production in the Greek West This book illustrates how Stesichorus reshaped Greek epic to create a remarkably innovative type of lyric poetry a literature that was particularly expressive in its handling of motifs associated with travel such as the voyages of heroes their returns home and their escapes This comprehensive survey of Stesichorus treatment of myth discusses his engagement with Homer and Hesiod his powerful and often moving means of characterisation his subtle treatment of narrative and his elaboration of emotional episodes unprecedented in archaic Greek lyric poetry All Greek is translated making the book accessible to anyone with an interest in one of the great poets of archaic Greece whose work had such an impact on the later genre of tragedy The Main Tendencies of Victorian Poetry Arnold Smith, 1907 Studies in Aramaic Poetry (c. 100 B.C.E.-c. 600 C.E.)

Rodrigues Pereira,2018-07-17 The paucity of material which has limited the study of Aramaic for too long is gradually being alleviated An ever growing body of well edited texts is being made available to the scholarly world These publications have provoked a number of important and penetrating linguistical and grammatical studies Generally however corresponding literary studies of these texts are still lacking The present work is an attempt to add a literary approach to the earlier analyses The study deals with Aramaic poetry of the period between c 100 B C E and c 600 C E The discussion of the textual material is organized in a number of levels one superimposed upon the other The basis is formed by a close exegetical and literary reading of the poems to elucidate essential elements of content style and form Particular attention is paid to structure and composition as a function of the content of the poems and to the use made by the poets of stylistic devices as structural elements
