Lilia, 2021-12-21 Researcher implementer partnerships are frequently mentioned as key components of agricultural research for development AR4D programs. However, there is little information about what these types of partnerships look like, how they perform, and what factors facilitate and/or constrain their performance. By documenting and analyzing two partnerships in detail, including their history, formation, outputs, and outcomes, this study seeks to raise awareness about and improve understanding of long-term researcher implementer partnerships. The lessons learned from these partnerships can be used by both the International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI) and its implementing partner organizations, as well as other research and implementing organizations interested in engaging in or supporting such partnerships for AR4D in the future. The study was carried out through four case studies. Case 1 focused on a long-term partnership between IFPRI and Helen Keller International (HKI), documenting how it was formed, how it operated, and what outputs it produced. Case 2 looked at the evidence generated by this partnership on the effectiveness of homestead food production (HFP) programs on nutrition-related outcomes and its use by funders, implementers, and researchers. Case 3 looked at how and to what extent the approaches developed by the partnership for the design, implementation, and evaluation of programs, specifically the program impact pathway (PIP) approach, have influenced the broader field of program evaluation. Case 4 examined a partnership between IFPRI and the World Food Programme (WFP), documenting how it was formed, how it operated, and what outputs it has produced to date. The four case studies were completed through a series of in-depth interviews (IDIs) with key informants from a number of research implementer and funder organizations. Data from the IDIs were complemented by document and literature reviews.

A 90-day exercise plan progresses through four levels of intensity: flexibility, firmness, strength, and endurance, to a maintenance program designed to reach and maintain peak fitness. Detailed descriptions and diagnosis are provided for a variety of each type of exercise. Food, nutrition, and diet-related topics that are examined include: 1. behavior modification; 2. emotional and cultural dependencies on food; 3. guidelines for low-calorie food and drink preparation; 4. attraction of quick weight loss schemes; 5. vegetarian diets; 6. nutritional needs of pregnancy; 7. importance of breakfast; and 8. the role of appetite in regulating food intake. Selected diet organizations, i.e., Weight Watchers International, Diet Workshop, TOPS Club, Overeaters Anonymous, Diet Control Centers, Lean Line Diet Center, TruMans Clubs, and their basic principles and sample menus are described. Background information is presented on major classes of nutrients, i.e., proteins, carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, and minerals, and disorders associated with overweight. Tables show nutrient requirements, functions, and food sources, desirable weights for men and women, and the Recommended Dietary Allowances and Estimated Safe and Adequate Allowances for selected nutrients.
