Nature Of Hunting:

Going Wild Jan E. Dizard, 1994 Pivoting on a recent controversy over a proposed deer hunt on the largest public watershed in Massachusetts sociologist Dizard explores how different people think of nature He interviewed resource managers animals rights advocates hunters and environmentalists and discovered that those who supported the hunt thought nature was chaotic and dangerous and had to be managed and those who opposed it thought nature was fragile and should be left alone Paper edition unseen 12 95 Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Southern Hunting in Black and White Stuart A. Marks, 1991 For many Southern men living in or close to rural landscapes hunting is a passion But it is not a timeless activity in a cultural void Whether pursuers of fox or raccoon deer or rabbits quail or dove Southern hunters reveal for Stuart Marks complex patterns of male bonding social status and relationships with nature Marks who has written two outstanding books on hunting in Africa was born and has long lived in the South Examining Southern hunting from frontier times through the antebellum era to the present day he shows it to be a litmus test of rural identity Drawing on the latest anthropological theory statistical sources extensive interviews and historical research Marks has crafted a multifaceted account of Southern hunting Relations of race property gender and region appear in fresh guises in this innovative and intriguing study The portrayal of the contemporary state of hunting is especially interesting revealing both the continuities with the past and the new pressures on the sport Virginia Quarterly Review

A View to a Death in the Morning Matt Cartmill, 1996-10-01 What brought the ape out of the trees and so the man out of the ape was a taste for blood This is how the story went when a few fossils found in Africa in the 1920s seemed to point to hunting as the first human activity among our simian forebears the force behind our upright posture skill with tools domestic arrangements and warlike ways Why on such slim evidence did the theory take hold In this engrossing book Matt Cartmill searches out the origins and the strange allure of the myth of Man the Hunter An exhilarating foray into cultural history A View to a Death in the Morning shows us how hunting has figured in the western imagination from the myth of Artemis to the tale of Bambi and how its evolving image has reflected our own view of ourselves A leading biological anthropologist Cartmill brings remarkable wit and wisdom to his story Beginning with the killer ape theory in its post World War II version he takes us back through literature and history to other versions of the hunting hypothesis Earlier accounts of Man the Hunter drafted in the Renaissance reveal a growing uneasiness with humanity's supposed dominion over nature By delving further into the history of hunting from its promotion as a maker of men and builder of character to its image as an aristocratic pastime charged with ritual and eroticism Cartmill shows us how the hunter has always stood between the human domain and the wild his status changing with cultural conceptions of that boundary Cartmill's inquiry leads us through classical antiquity and Christian tradition medieval history Renaissance thought and the Romantic movement to the most recent controversies over wilderness management and animal rights Modern ideas about human dominion find their expression in everything from scientific theories and philosophical assertions to Disney movies and sporting magazines Cartmill's survey of these sources offers fascinating insight into the significance of hunting as a mythic metaphor in recent times particularly after the savagery of the world wars reawakened grievous doubts about man's place in nature A masterpiece of humanistic science A View to a Death in the Morning is also a thoughtful meditation on what it means to be human to stand uncertainly between the wilderness of beast and prey and the peaceable kingdom This richly illustrated book will captivate readers on every side of the dilemma from the most avid hunters to their most vehement opponents to those who simply wonder about the import of hunting in human nature

EcoPatriarchy Ria Montana, 2020-02-11 From hominin to Homo sapiens the story of the human ape's relationship with other species and Earth has been more tragic than not From human origins ever emerging brutal lifeways turned humans predators into prey paving a blood path of conquest over the planet As the growing human brain honed inventiveness of the hunt it too cultivated an intensified compassion This palpable incongruence sparked a mind adaptation utilizing language to rationalize killing Rationalizing through mythologies and rituals served as an evolutionary strategy to overcome anxiety in slaying other animals Man the Hunter entwined humans with other animals onto an apocalypse bound course This thesis picks up from the 1990's debate between Feminists for Animal Rights FAR and Deep Ecology Through the lens of resistance anthropology observing wildness the Man the Hunter narrative is reinterpreted as eco patriarchy a trap set in the roots of the origins of early humans adaptation into hunting Ria Montana takes us closer to truths about human nature She sees that hunting and later domestication stifled human empathy for and kinship with our animal cousins and contributed to false ideas of male supremacy and female inferiority Her stuff is vital now in this era of re-defining gender and discarding the lies and myths of patriarchal culture Jim Mason author of An Unnatural Order Why We Are Destroying the Planet and Each Other If there is a meaning to humanity and our being here our journey here this is it without a doubt Kenneth Damro hunter turned vegan and author of A Northwoodsman's Guide to Everyday Compassion This intense essay hits hard tearing apart years old analysis of hunter gatherer absurdity Flower Bomb creator of Warzone Distro and co organizer of Green Scare Anarchist Bookfair Let animals be our teachers a radical change that Ria is promoting for which many thanks Yi Fu Tuan author of Dominance Affection The Making of Pets

Nature and Nation Jeyamalar Kathirithamby-Wells, 2005-10-31 Nature and Nation explores the relations between people and forests in Peninsular Malaysia where the planet's richest terrestrial eco system met head on with the fastest pace of economic transformation experienced in the tropical world It engages the interplay of history culture science economics and politics to provide a holistic interpretation of the continuing relevance of forests to state and society in the moist tropics Malaysia has long been singled out for emulation by developing nations an accolade contradicted in recent years by concerns over its capital rather than poverty driven forest depletion The Malaysian case supports the call for re appraisal of entrenched prescriptions for development that go beyond material needs Book cover The Nature of Empires and the Empires of Nature Karl S. Hele, 2013-09-28 Drawing on themes from John MacKenzie's Empires of Nature and the Nature of Empires 1997 this book explores from Indigenous or Indigenous influenced perspectives the power of nature and the attempts by empires United States Canada and Britain to control it It also examines contemporary threats to First Nations communities from ongoing political environmental and social issues and the efforts to confront and eliminate these threats to peoples and the environment It becomes apparent that empire despite its manifestations of power cannot control or discipline humans and nature Essays suggest new ways of looking at the Great Lakes watershed and the peoples and empires contained within it

The Empire of Nature John M. MacKenzie, 2008 This study assesses the significance of the hunting cult as a major element of the imperial experience in Africa and Asia Through a study of the game laws and the beginnings of conservation in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries the author demonstrates the racial inequalities which existed between Europeans and indigenous hunters Africans were denied access to game and the development of game reserves and national parks accelerated this process Indigenous hunters in Africa and India were turned into poachers and only Europeans were permitted to hunt In India the hunting of animals became the chief recreation of military officers and civilian officials a source of display and a symbolic dominance of the environment Imperial hunting fed the natural history craze of the day and many hunters collected trophies and specimens for private and public collections as well as contributing to hunting literature John MacKenzie also connects hunting and game conservation to concepts of masculinity attitudes towards diet and the development of western tourism Nature Sir Norman Lockyer, 1877 Kindred Nature Barbara T. Gates, 1998 Centers on what a number of British Victorian and Edwardian women said and did in the name of nature what part they played in the cultural reconstruction of nature that transpired in the years just proceeding the publication of Darwin's major work and in the wake of the Darwinian revolution Introduction Nature, God and Humanity Richard L. Fern, 2002-04-04 Nature God and Humanity clarifies the task of forming an ethics of nature thereby empowering readers to develop their own critical faith based ethics Calling on original thought provoking analyses and arguments Richard L. Fern frames a philosophical ethics of nature assesses it scientifically finds support for it in traditional biblical theism and situates it culturally Though defending the moral value of beliefs affirming the radical Otherness of God and human uniqueness this book aims not to compel the adoption of any particular ethic but rather illumine the contribution diverse forms of inquiry make to an ethics of nature How does philosophy clarify moral conviction What does science tell us about nature Why does religious faith matter Rejecting the illusion of a single rationally compelling ethics Fern answers these questions in a way that fosters both agreement and disagreement allowing those holding conflicting ethics of nature to work together for the common good A History of the
