Newbolt,2017-07-27 Excerpt from Naval Operations Vol 4 The second favourable circumstance was due to a coincidence Sir Julian's last volume closed with the close of the battle of Jutland Much remained to be said about that event but the event itself had been fully narrated the first stage of the war had been brought to a definite conclusion The period of great naval operations in the old sense was over the remaining volumes of the History were to deal with a new kind of war a naval war on a vast scale but conducted mainly by blockade and counter blockade both unexampled in kind and with a moral struggle in which the vital conflict at sea was inseparably interwoven with a conflict of imponderable forces acting by intrigues and negotiations national and international The new aspect would naturally call for some change or development of method and the contrast between the working of two minds might thus be fortunately obscured A glance at the contents of the present volume will bear out what has been said In the three opening chapters Sir Julian's narrative is directly continued from June 1 1916 As the mists of confusion and misrepresentation clear away the result of the battle of Jutland is plainly seen the British policy and position are confirmed and an imperative necessity is laid upon the German Government to abandon fleet action and go forward on the line of U boat development At this point we are reminded that the work involved in the main struggle was not the sole call on our Navy efforts were necessary in all parts of the world some incidental to the main policy some merely auxiliary to military Operations on land and some again carried on jointly with Allied forces In order to place the whole position in a clear light it is necessary to bring up to date these secondary operations and the eight sections of Chapter IV have this purpose They include the adventurous story of the Tanganyika expedition the smallest and most distant of the whole war and one of the most successful the brilliant episode of our submarine service in the Baltic and the concluding scenes of the epic of the Serbian Army About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      Maritime Strategy and Sea Denial Milan

Vego,2018-12-07 This book focuses on the theory and practice of maritime strategy and operations by the weaker powers at sea Illustrated by examples from naval and military history the book explains and analyzes the strategies of the weaker side at sea in both peacetime and wartime in defense versus offense the main prerequisites for disputing control of the sea and the conceptual framework of disputing control of the sea It also explains and analyzes in some detail the main methods of disputing sea control avoiding seeking decisive encounters weakening enemy naval forces over time counter containment of enemy naval forces destroying the enemy s military economic potential at sea attacks on the enemy coast defense of the coast defense capturing important positions basing areas and defense capturing of a choke point A majority of the world s navies are currently of small or medium size In the case of a war with a much stronger opponent they would be strategically on the defensive and their main objective then would be to dispute control of the sea by a stronger side at sea This book provides a practical guide to such a strategy This book would be of much interest to students of naval power maritime security strategic studies and military naval history

Jellicoe's War Nicholas Jellicoe, 2024-12-31 In February 1917 German U boats launched a savage unrestricted campaign against both Allied and neutral shipping At its peak in April 860 000 tons of Allied merchant shipping was sunk Britain s supremacy at sea was being severely challenged and with it the chances of victory in the wider war Taking up the challenge was Britain s new First Sea Lord Sir John Jellicoe until the previous December C in C of the Grand Fleet famously described by Churchill as the only man who could have lost the war in an afternoon The battle he now faced was equally critical although the timeline of defeat was a matter of days rather than hours Britain s food stocks were dangerously low with wheat reserves down to six weeks and sugar to only two while wide scale shortages were crippling the industrial economy Jellicoe outlined the gravity of the situation with total candor to Rear Admiral William Sims USN sent over before America officially declared war by Franklin Roosevelt the Assistant Secretary of the Navy The two men already knew each other from service together in China during the Boxer Rebellion so Jellicoe s plea for urgent American assistance was taken seriously by Sims After the USA joined the war in April 1917 together they lobbied Washington for aid addressing their needs directly to two reluctant Anglophobes at the head of the USN Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and Chief of Naval Operations William Benson Clearly a radical new approach to anti submarine warfare was called for and Convoy was the leading contender There were many objections to protecting shipping in this way some ideological but most practical a workable system for example effectively required state control of both shipping and distribution networks something inconceivable in normal circumstances However Convoy had powerful advocates including the Prime Minister Lloyd George who later claimed he had personally forced its adoption on a reluctant Admiralty This self serving political myth cast Jellicoe as an opponent of Convoy nothing could be further from the truth As both Jellicoe and Sims understood the key requirement was a rapid increase in the number of destroyers for escort duties America provided them the first arriving in Queenstown Ireland on 4 May and by June 46 were operating in European waters This was the first step in an Anglo American campaign that gradually brought the U boat threat under control and led to its ultimate defeat This book takes a fresh look at the undersea war as a whole and all the complex factors bearing on the campaign only one of which was convoy Its analysis is original and its conclusions thought provoking an important contribution to the naval history
