Kazan tests several hypotheses on development communications derived from the ideas of Marx Toynbee Lerner McLuhan

Frey and Schiller through three years of research he conducted in Saudi Arabia Oman Bahrain the United Arab Emirates Kuwait and Qatar He focuses on whether media content rather than the process of media exposure i e vicarious exposure to different experiences is the decisive factor in cultivating modernity Particularly Kazan examines whether Gulf media which convey socially and politically restricted traditional content in traditional societies cultivate attitudinal traditionality or modernity Investigated are the differences in the impact of local regional and foreign media and various media organs including newspapers magazines radio television video and electronic media Kazan also tests the notion of cultural imperialism such as the degrees of credibility that respondents lend to Western media their interest in and satisfaction with Western and regional media and the amount of time respondents allocate to Western and local media Specific media studied include the Voice of America Radio Moscow Monte Carlo Radio the BBC Voice of the Arabs Voice of the Arab Homeland Radio of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the local broadcasting services of each Gulf country Dr Kazan presents both a review and a critique of classical and mainstream theories of modernization in general and those of development communication in particular to determine the degrees of validity relevance and applicability of these theories to the development situation of Gulf societies Furthermore Kazan develops an integrated mass media effects model that factors in both macro and micro processes that are dynamically interconnected interdependent and continuously evolving and changing to account for the impact of media on modernity and development Media impact according to this model should be understood not only in terms of the socio economic and psychological characteristics of the media audience but also in terms of the dynamics of the whole socio cultural and political system Kazan concludes his study with a critique of the Western paradigm of development and presents the outline of a new paradigm of development that is more in harmony with the new physics with the ecosystems and with social justice influence of the Global South this book incorporates their important contributions while at the same time recognizing the continued inequalities and disproportionate power and wealth of these marginalized nations This book is the first to examine the globalization of the human development and capability approach HDCA as an ideology of international development and an ideology of globalization It explores the relationship between HDCA and globalization and the extent to which the HDCA has been globalizing Further the authors analysis looks at How certain HDCA ideas are promoted discussed and cited more often than those stemming from neoliberalism and other development paradigms How the HDCA was influenced by development thinking in the Global South during the Cold War along with mobilizations to end all forms of colonialism neocolonialism and imperialism Why the HDCA has re oriented global development thinking and practice away from state centric and profit focused development models fixated on GDP growth to prioritize individual well being and freedoms
