Transcendental Representations with Applications to Solids and Fluids

Luis Manuel Braga da Costa Campos, 2012-04-04 Building on the author's previous book in the series Complex Analysis with Applications to Flows and Fields CRC Press 2010 Transcendental Representations with Applications to Solids and Fluids focuses on four infinite representations series expansions series of fractions for meromorphic functions infinite products for functions with infinitely many zeros and continued fractions as alternative representations This book also continues the application of complex functions to more classes of fields including incompressible rotational flows compressible irrotational flows unsteady flows rotating flows surface tension and capillarity deflection of membranes under load torsion of rods by torques plane elasticity and plane viscous flows The two books together offer a complete treatment of complex analysis showing how the elementary transcendental functions and other complex functions are applied to fluid and solid media and force fields mainly in two dimensions The mathematical developments appear in odd numbered chapters while the physical and engineering applications can be found in even numbered chapters The last chapter presents a set of detailed examples Each chapter begins with an introduction and concludes with related topics Written by one of the foremost authorities in aeronautical aerospace engineering this self contained book gives the necessary mathematical background and physical principles to build models for technological and scientific purposes It shows how to formulate problems justify the solutions and interpret the results

History of Strength of Materials Stephen Timoshenko, 1983-01-01

Strength of materials is that branch of engineering concerned with the deformation and disruption of solids when forces other than changes in position or equilibrium are acting upon them The development of our understanding of the strength of materials has enabled engineers to establish the forces which can safely be imposed on structure or components or to choose materials appropriate to the necessary dimensions of structures and components which have to withstand given loads without suffering effects deleterious to their proper functioning This excellent historical survey of the strength of materials with many references to the theories of elasticity and structures is based on an extensive series of lectures delivered by the author at Stanford University Palo Alto California Timoshenko explores the early roots of the discipline from the great monuments and pyramids of ancient Egypt through the temples roads and fortifications of ancient Greece and Rome The author fixes the formal beginning of the modern science of the strength of materials with the publications of Galileo's book Two Sciences and traces the rise and development as well as industrial and commercial applications of the fledgling science from the seventeenth century through the twentieth century Timoshenko fleshes out the bare bones of mathematical theory with lucid demonstrations of important equations and brief biographies of highly influential mathematicians including Euler Lagrange Navier Thomas Young Saint Venant Franz Neumann Maxwell Kelvin Rayleigh Klein Prandtl and many others These theories equations and biographies are further enhanced by clear discussions of the development of engineering and engineering education in Italy France Germany England and elsewhere 245 figures The Shock and Vibration Digest, 1981-07
