Modern Wilderness:

Driven Wild Paul S. Sutter, 2009-11-23 In its infancy the movement to protect wilderness areas in the United States was motivated less by perceived threats from industrial and agricultural activities than by concern over the impacts of automobile owners seeking recreational opportunities in wild areas Countless commercial and government purveyors vigorously promoted the mystique of travel to breathtakingly scenic places and roads and highways were built to facilitate such travel By the early 1930s New Deal public works programs brought these trends to a startling crescendo The dilemma faced by stewards of the nation's public lands was how to protect the wild qualities of those places while accommodating and often encouraging automobile based tourism By 1935 the founders of the Wilderness Society had become convinced of the impossibility of doing both In Driven Wild Paul Sutter traces the intellectual and cultural roots of the modern wilderness movement from about 1910 through the 1930s with tightly drawn portraits of four Wilderness Society founders Aldo Leopold Robert Sterling Yard Benton MacKaye and Bob Marshall Each man brought a different background and perspective to the advocacy for wilderness preservation yet each was spurred by a fear of what growing numbers of automobiles aggressive road building and the meteoric increase in Americans turning to nature for their leisure would do to the country's wild places As Sutter discovered the founders of the Wilderness Society were driven wild pushed by a rapidly changing country to construct a new preservationist ideal Sutter demonstrates that the birth of the movement to protect wilderness areas reflected a growing belief among an important group of conservationists that the modern forces of capitalism industrialism urbanism and mass consumer culture were gradually eroding not just the ecology of North America but crucial American values as well For them wilderness stood for something deeply sacred that was in danger of being lost so that the movement to protect it was about saving not just wild nature but ourselves as well

Jones-Imhotep,Tina Adcock,2018-12-14 Science and technology have shaped not only economic empires and industrial landscapes but also the identities anxieties and understandings of people living in modern times Made Modern Science and Technology in Canadian History draws together leading scholars from a wide range of fields to enrich our understanding of history inside and outside Canada s borders The book s chapters examine how science and technology have allowed Canadians to imagine and reinvent themselves as modern Focusing on topics including exploration scientific rationality the occult medical instruments patents communication and infrastructure the contributors situate Canadian scientific and technological developments within larger national and transnational contexts The first major collection of its kind in thirty years Made Modern explores the place of science and technology in shaping Canadians experience of themselves and their place in the modern world      Filming the Modern Middle East Lina Khatib,2006-09-29 Filming the Modern Middle East is the first comparative investigation of how modern American cinema and the cinemas of the Arab world represent Middle Eastern politics to their audiences Lina Khatib examines the cinematic depictions of major political issues from the Arab Israeli conflict to the Gulf War to Islamic fundamentalism and covers films made in the USA in Egypt Tunisia Morocco Lebanon Syria and Palestine She explores cinema s role as a tool of nationalism in the USA and the Arab world and the challenges the Arab cinemas present to Hollywood s dominant representations of Middle Eastern politics But she also reveals similarities between supposed contradictory cinemas and importantly not only how the Orient is constructed by the Occident but also how the Orient itself in these cinemas represents Self and Others and how it is consumed by internal as well as external struggles This is a fascinating original contribution to the burgeoning interest in world cinemas which also offers a fresh way of seeing Middle East politics through cinematic lenses      German Culture and the Modern Environmental Imagination Sabine Wilke,2015-03-20 Thinking about and relating to the environment what the Germans call Umwelt i e the world that surrounds us in the way that we do today has a long tradition within modern German culture German scientists were among the many European explorers that left Europe in the late eighteenth century on voyages of discovery to then unknown parts of the world For some explorers discovery meant the fundamental confirmation of their own superiority vis vis primitive peoples and primitive natures for others it resulted in a shake up of their belief in the superiority of European civilization in the face of the achievements of other civilizations or in the face of spectacular nature scenes that outperformed the temperate European landscapes in terms of scale sublimity and grandeur The documents that contain these stories of discovery left an important impression not only on German culture but on European civilization at large defining it vis vis other civilizations and other natures Europe today is the product of these encounters including the way we conceive of our Umwelt the environment that surrounds us The story told in this book is the story of the rise of the modern German environmental imagination with particular emphasis on its narrative and visual components complementing and expanding Barbara Stafford s important work in her seminal study of the illustrated travel account from 1984 Chapters on Georg Forster Alexander von Humboldt Albert Bierstadt Leni Riefenstahl and Werner Herzog unfold the key stages in a process that constitutes the unfolding of the modern German environmental imagination

Proceedings RMRS. ,1998      Creating a Modern Countryside* James Murton,2011-11-01 In the early 1900s British Columbia embarked on a brief but intense effort to manufacture a modern countryside The government wished to reward veterans of the Great War with new lives soliders and other settlers would benefit from living in a rural community considered a more healthy and moral alternative to urban life But the fundamental reason for the land resettlement project was the rise of progressive or new liberal thinking as reformers advocated an expanded role for the state in guaranteeing the prosperity and economic security of its citizens This ideological shift pushed the government to intervene directly in the management of not only society but also the natural environment As most arable accessible land in British Columbia was already being farmed by 1919 the state had to undertake environmental engineering projects on a scale not yet attempted in the province Creating a Modern Countryside examines how this process unfolded identifies its successes and failures and demonstrates how the human environment relationship of the early twentieth century shaped the province as it is today

Negotiating the Landscape Ellen F. Arnold,2012-12-18 Negotiating the Landscape explores the question of how medieval religious identities were shaped and modified by interaction with the natural environment Focusing on the Benedictine monastic community of Stavelot Malmedy in the Ardennes Ellen F Arnold draws upon a rich archive of charters property and tax records correspondence miracle collections and saints lives from the seventh to the mid twelfth century to explore the contexts in which the monks intense engagement with the natural world was generated and refined Arnold argues for a broad cultural approach to medieval environmental history and a consideration of a medieval environmental imagination through which people perceived the nonhuman world and their own relation to it Concerned to reassert medieval Christianity s vitality and variety Arnold also seeks to oppose the historically influential view that the natural world was regarded in the premodern period as provided by God solely for human use and exploitation The book argues that rather than possessing a single unifying vision of nature the monks drew on their ideas and experience to create and then manipulate a complex understanding of their environment Viewing nature as both wild and domestic they simultaneously acted out several roles as stewards of the land and as economic agents exploiting natural resources They saw the natural world of the Ardennes as a type of wilderness a pastoral haven and a source of human salvation and actively incorporated these differing views of nature into their own attempts to build their community understand and establish their religious identity and relate to others who shared their landscape

Modern Eloquence, Founded by Thomas B. Reed: hart to Snyder Ashley Horace Thorndike, Brander Matthews, Sir Robert Laird Borden, 1927     The Modern Reader's Bible, 1907     Modern Eloquence Ashley Horace Thorndike, 1928     A Brief History of Ancient, Mediæval, and Modern Peoples Joel Dorman Steele, Esther Baker Steele, 1883     A Modern Wilderness R. Weldon Smith, 2006-12-19     The Bible by modern light Cunningham Geikie, 1896     Modern Wilderness William Arthur Babson, 1940     The Modern Reader's Bible Richard Green Moulton, 1907     The School in the Modern Church Henry Frederick Cope, 1919     A History of the Modern World, 1815-1910 Oscar Browning, 1912     Unlikely Environmentalists Paul Charles Milazzo, 2006 Reveals how boosters bureaucrats and engineers not grassroots protesters were truly the ones responsible for spearheading the passage of the Clean Water Act of 1972 How these unlikely protagonists helped to pass the era's most far reaching regulatory law gives us rare insight into how Congress was able to take the lead in addressing those concerns namely in the form of water quality issues     Aspects of the Social Problem by Various Writers Bosanquet, 1895
