Materialist Reading Of The Gospel Of Mark:

A Materialist Reading of the Gospel of Mark Fernando Belo,1981 A Materialist Reading of the Gospel of Mark

Fernando Belo, Cultural Interpretation Brian K. Blount,1995 Building on insights into the social functions of language especially its interpersonal dimensions Blount constructs a culturally sensitive model of interpretation that provides a sound basis for ethnographic and popular as well as historical critical readings of the biblical text Blount s framework does more than acknowledge the inevitability of multiple interpretations it foments them His analysis demonstrates the social intent of every reading and shows the influence of communicative context in such diverse readings of the Bible as Rudolf Bultmann s the peasants of Solentiname the Negro spirituals and black church sermons Then Blount turns to Mark s account of the trial of Jesus where he shows how this hermeneutical scheme helps to assess the emergence and validity of multiple readings of the text and the figure of Jesus Blount s expansive interpretive proposal will help scholars and students open up the possibilities of the text without abandoning it The Origins of Mark Dwight N. Peterson,2000 The book discusses and criticizes the practice of constructing a community behind the Gospel of Mark and by implication other Gospels and using that community to control appropriate interpretation of Mark It converses with particular exemplars of this practice and briefly suggests other ways to ground the interpretation of Mark

The Oxford Handbook of Postcolonial Biblical

Criticism R. S. Sugirtharajah,2023 The Oxford Handbook of Postcolonial Biblical Criticism is a comprehensive treatment of a relatively new form of scholarship Generally speaking postcolonialism aims to critique and dismantle hegemonic worldviews and power structures while giving voice to previously marginalized peoples and systems of thought This approach has inevitably engaged with the text and reception of the Bible a scripture that Western colonizers introduced to and often imposed upon their colonial subjects With a globally diverse list of contributors the Handbook aims to cover the perspective and context of the authors of the Bible as well as the modern experiences of imperialism resistance decolonization and nationalism

Ecotheology and Nonhuman Ethics in Society Melissa Brotton,2016-11-30 This book promotes Christian ecology and animal ethics from the perspectives of the Bible science and the Judeo Christian tradition In an age of climate change how do we protect species and individual animals Does it matter how we treat bugs How does understanding the Trinity and Christ s self emptying nature help us to be more responsible earth caretakers What do Christian ethics have to do with hunting How do the Foxfire books of Southern Appalachia help us to love a place Does ecology need a place at the pulpit and in hymns How do Catholic approaches past and present help us appreciate and respond to the created world Finally how does Jesus respond to humans nonhumans and environmental concerns in the Gospel of Mark Prophet, Son, Messiah Edwin Keith Broadhead,1994-04-01 Employing a formalistic analysis set within a broad tradition history context this analysis investigates the relationship between Passion story and Gospel story in Mark Broadhead looks especially at the narrative morphology and narrative syntax of individual stories their relation to the Passion account and their interaction with the larger world of the narrative He reveals in Mark 14:16 a carefully crafted text which is intimately linked to the larger Gospel story. This is particularly true of the strategies of characterization and of the christological portrait they support. This book invites reconsideration of basic questions about Mark: its nature and purpose, the role of the community behind it, assumptions about authorial intention, patterns of development for the Gospel tradition and the form and function of the Gospel genre.

The Gospel of Mark, 1992 Fear, Anomaly, and Uncertainty in the Gospel of Mark Douglas W. Geyer, 2002

Douglas Geyer's illuminating analysis of Mark 4:35-6:56 explains why the Gospel ends as it does in the earliest manuscripts abruptly at 16:8 with the words 'for they were afraid.' This ending, with women fleeing the empty tomb in trembling and astonishment, has long been considered problematic and in the several attempts to rewrite it, Mark 16 has become a source of unending mischief. Geyer's work draws on a vast literature of fear, anomaly, terror and dread in the ancient world to demonstrate that this ending is a consistent overriding theme of Mark's Gospel. In Mark we see and hear the story of Jesus through the eyes and ears of the Roman world. Geyer brings to bear the literature of that world in a way that helps his readers to understand what Mark is doing and how the story that Mark tells continues to touch his readers and hearers, ancient and modern and postmodern. Geyer guides the reader through a vast and uncharted primary literature, demonstrating its relevance for New Testament study. In so doing, he clearly proposes a fresh and original understanding of Mark that cuts across many of the critical controversies and renews its purpose and usefulness as good news Gospel for the terrors and uncertainties of our own time.

The Postmodern Bible George Aichele, Fred W. Burnett, Robert M. Fowler, David Jobling, Tina Pippin, Wilhelm Wuellner, Bible and Culture Collective, 1995-01-01. The burgeoning use of modern literary theory and cultural criticism in recent biblical studies has led to stimulating but often bewildering new readings of the Bible. This book argued from a perspective shaped by postmodernism is at once an accessible guide to and an engagement with various methods, theories and critical practices transforming biblical scholarship today. Written by a collective of cutting-edge scholars, with each page the work of multiple hands, The Postmodern Bible deliberately breaks with the individualist model of authorship that has traditionally dominated scholarship in the humanities and is itself an illustration of the postmodern transformation of biblical studies for which it argues. The book introduces, illustrates and critiques seven prominent strategies of reading. Several of these interpretive strategies—rhetorical criticism, structuralism and narratology, reader response criticism and feminist criticism have been instrumental in the transformation of biblical studies up to now. Many feminist and womanist criticism, ideological criticism, poststructuralism and psychoanalytic criticism hold promise for the continued transformation of these studies in the future. Focusing on readings from both the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament, this volume illuminates the current multidisciplinary debates emerging from postmodernism by exposing the still highly contested epistemological, political and ethical positions in the field of biblical studies.
