Making Music:

Any Sound You Can Imagine Paul Théberge, 1997-06-23 Describes digital musical instruments industries that supply and promote them and the meanings they have for musicians Winner of the International Association for the Study of Popular Music IASPM Book Award 1997 Recent innovations in musical instrument design are not simply a response to the needs of musicians writes Paul Théberge they also have become a driving force with which musicians must contend He argues that digital synthesizers samplers and sequencers in studio production and in the home have caused musicians to rely increasingly on manufacturers for both the instruments themselves as well as the very sounds and musical patterns that they use to make music Musical practices have thus become allied with a new type of consumer practice that is altogether different from earlier relationships between musicians and their instruments as a means of production Théberge places these developments within a broad social and historical perspective that examines the development of the musical instrument industry particularly the piano industry the economic and cultural role of musicians magazines and computer networks and the fundamental relationships between musical concepts styles and technology Making Music George Martin, 1983

Adam T. Walton,Caroline Duffy,2014-10-05 On Making Music is a guide for original music makers of any genre encouraging originality and covering many different aspects of being a musical artist in 2014 songwriting arranging recording getting gigs management making money DIY releases etc I m Adam Walton I have been making a new music show for BBC Wales since 1993 On Making Music is my high minded attempt to give something back to the force that has thrilled me frustrated me and fed me for the last two decades It was driven by my experiences both as someone who has listened to tens of thousands of demos over twenty years hearing the same mistakes being made again and again and as a struggling music maker from a provincial town Mold in North Wales My band and I made every elementary mistake imaginable signing bad contracts recording the wrong songs believing our own hype never submitting our music to anyone It saddens me that music makers in 2014 are making the exact same mistakes I was making in 1994 and this is my attempt to offer advice that will help them to avoid those pitfalls and also to inspire them However On Making Music isn't just about my experiences or my advice It's informed by words of wisdom I have harvested from two decades worth of interviews that I conducted with legendary music makers like Black Francis Pixies Ray Davies The Kinks Jarvis Cocker Elliott Smith Kristin Hersh Ian Brown Gruff Rhys and many others There are also a number of topic specific exclusive interviews with some of the UK's most highly regarded contemporary music makers The Joy Formidable Charlotte Church Future of the Left's Andrew Falkous Welsh Music Prize winner Georgia Ruth former Boo Radley Martin Carr Van McCann from Catfish and the Bottlemen et al And sage voices from the music industry also contribute their advice Radio 1's Huw Stephens Stephen Bass from the highly influential and successful Moshi Moshi Records the Turnstile management team and record label and more It's important to note that On Making Music is not a po-faced rulebook or a set of commandments I believe strongly that the most important philosophy to encourage is one of originality not conformity Music has been gentrified over recent years and the 12 months it has taken to research and write On Making Music will have been entirely worthwhile if it inspires more music makers to be themselves to make music fearlessly and with less concern for fitting in with the expectations and demands of the media and the industry And to have fun That is absolutely key
