Nations Health

Ida M. Lynn

Nations Health:

Coming to Terms with World Health Iris Borowy, 2009 The League of Nations Health Organisation was the first international health organisation with a broad mandate and global responsibilities. It acted as a technical agency of the League of Nations an institution designed to safeguard a new world order during the tense interwar period. The work of the Health Organisation had distinct political implications although ostensibly it was concerned merely with health. Until 1946 it addressed a broad spectrum of issues including public health data, various diseases, biological standardization and the reform of national health systems. The economic depression spurred its focus on social medicine where it sought to identify minimum standards for living conditions notably nutrition and housing defined as essential for healthy lives. Attracting a group of innovative thinkers the organization laid the groundwork for all following international health work effective until today.

The International Medical Relief Corps in Wartime China, 1937-1945 Robert Mamlok, M.D., 2018-10-03 Both before and during World War II the Nazis restricted the rights of Jewish and communist doctors. Some fought back first by fighting against Fascism in the Spanish Civil War and then by helping the Chinese in their struggle against Japan. There were however two rival factions in China. One favored Chiang Kai-shek the nationalists and the other the communists and 27 foreign medical personnel were caught between them. Amidst poverty, war and corruption living conditions were poor and traveling was hazardous. This book follows members of the Chinese Red Cross Medical Relief Corps through the war as they became enemy aliens and pursued their work despite the perils. These doctors had a keen sense of public health needs and contributed to the recognition and management of infectious diseases and nutritional disorders all the while denouncing corruption, inhumanity and inequality.

Social Determinants of Health, Fourth Edition Dennis Raphael, 2025-01-06 Now in its fourth edition Dennis Raphael's Social Determinants of Health offers the definitive Canadian discussion of the primary factors that influence the health of Canada's population. This unique text on the social determinants of health contains contributions from top academics and high profile experts from across Canada. Taking a public policy approach the contributors to this edited collection critically analyze the structural inequalities embedded in our society and the socio-economic factors that affect health including income, education, employment, housing, food security, gender and race. This new edition includes recent statistics, new developments in early childhood education and the implementation of Canada's national childcare system and new content on the social determinants of Indigenous Peoples' health. Particular attention is paid to how economic globalization and the acceptance of neoliberal governing ideology is shaping the health of Canadians. The COVID 19 epidemic vividly illustrated the importance of the social determinants of health as sickness and death rates were strikingly higher among Canadians in groups already experiencing adverse living and working conditions and poorer health. Lower income Canadians, recent immigrants of colour and those experiencing housing and food insecurity. If anything positive is to come out of this experience it will be recognition that in the current post COVID 19 environment it is essential to understand the socio economic conditions that shape the health of individuals and communities Social Determinants of Health Fourth Edition is aimed at courses focusing on the social determinants of health at Canadian universities and colleges particularly those in health studies and nursing but also allied health sociology and human services International Mortality Statistics Michael Alderson,1981-06-18 The United States Catalog ,1925 Decolonizing Data Jacqueline M.
