The Assertive Woman in Zora Neale Hurston's Fiction, Folklore, and Drama Pearlle Mae Fisher Peters,2015-12-22 Hurston was renowned for her portrayal of assertive women in her fiction folklore and drama This book explores her development as an assertive woman and outspoken writer emphasizing the impact of the African American oral traditions and vernacular speech patterns of Harlem Polk County and her hometown of Eatonville Florida on the development of her personal and artistic voice The study traces the development of her assertive women characters the emphasis upon verbal performance and verbal empowerment the significance of down home Southern humor and the importance of an ideology of assertive individualism in Hurston's writings and analyzes changes in Hurston's personal style. Hurston articulated an assertive spirit and voice that had a profound influence on the development of her professional reputation and on the course of African American literature, folklore, and culture of the 1920s, 1930s, and 1940s. This study combines literary criticism and biography in tracing her often controversial career. This wide-ranging book focuses upon links between Hurston's fiction and nonfiction and includes analysis of her plays, which have often been neglected in studies of her writing. Ph.D. dissertation, State University of New York Buffalo, 1989; revised with new introduction. Literary Influence and African-American Writers Tracy Mishkin, 2015-12-22. First published in 1996. This volume includes a collection of essays that were collected after the inspiration of finding positive interactions between African American and Irish writers during the Harlem Renaissance, a time when these two groups were hardly on good terms. The essays look at theories and realities of literary influence that especially affect African American writers. The Harlem Renaissance Remembered Arna Wendell Bontemps, 1984.

African-American Literature Paul Q. Tilden, 2003. Having its origins in the slave narratives and the folktales transmitted orally during that period, the literature of the African American has been rich and varied. Beginning with the first published work of fiction, Clotel; Or, the President's Daughter in 1853, continuing under the influence of W. E. B. Du Bois during the first part of this century and reaching a flowering during the Harlem Renaissance, major contributions have been made to American literature. Today African American writers such as Toni Morrison, Alex Haley, and Maya Angelou are recognized as among the most significant and popular authors in this country. This new book presents an important overview of African American literature as well as a comprehensive bibliography with easy access provided by title, subject, and author indexes.

Black Culture and the Harlem Renaissance Cary D. Wintz, 1996. Harlem symbolized the urbanization of black America in the 1920s and 1930s. Home to the largest concentration of African Americans who settled outside the South, it spawned the literary and artistic movement known as the Harlem Renaissance. Its writers were in the vanguard of an attempt to come to terms with black urbanization. They lived it and wrote about it. First published in 1988, Black Culture and the Harlem Renaissance examines the relationship between the community and its literature. Author Cary Wintz analyzes the movement's emergence within the framework of the black social and intellectual history of early twentieth-century America. He begins with Booker T. Washington, W. E. B. Du Bois, and others whose work broke barriers for the Renaissance writers to come. With an emphasis on social issues like writers and politics, the role of black women, and the interplay between black writers and the white community, Wintz traces the rise and fall of the movement. Of special interest is material from the Knopf Collection and the papers of several Renaissance figures acquired by the Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center at the University of Texas at Austin. It reveals much of interest about the relationship between the publishing world, its writers, and their patrons, both black and white. The Harlem Renaissance Harold Bloom, 2004. Harlem in the 1920s and 30s was the epicenter of a flourishing in African American literature with the poetry and prose of Langston Hughes, Zora Neale Hurston, Gwendolyn

Brooks and Claude McKay to name a few This volume examines the defining themes and styles of African American literature during this period which laid the groundwork for contemporary African American writers Richard Wright Kenneth Kinnamon, 2014-11-04 African American writer Richard Wright 1908 1960 was celebrated during the early 1940s for his searing autobiography Black Boy and fiction Native Son By 1947 he felt so unwelcome in his homeland that he exiled himself and his family in Paris But his writings changed American culture forever and today they are mainstays of literature and composition classes He and his works are also the subjects of numerous critical essays and commentaries by contemporary writers This volume presents a comprehensive annotated bibliography of those essays books and articles from 1983 through 2003 Arranged alphabetically by author within years are some 8 320 entries ranging from unpublished dissertations to book length studies of African American literature and literary criticism Also included as an appendix are addenda to the author's earlier bibliography covering the years from 1934 through 1982 This is the exhaustive reference for serious students of Richard Wright and his critics To Make a New Race Jon Woodson, 1999-05 Jean Toomer's adamant stance against racism and his call for a raceless society were far more complex than the average reader of works from the Harlem Renaissance might believe In To Make a New Race Jon Woodson explores the intense influence of Greek born mystic G I Gurdjieff on the thinking of Toomer and his coterie Zora Neale Hurston Nella Larsen George Schuyler Wallace Thurman and through them the mystic's influence on many of the notables in African American literature Gurdjieff born of poor Greco Armenian parents on the Russo Turkish frontier espoused the theory that man is asleep and in prison unless he strains against the major burdens of life especially those of identification like race Toomer whose novel Cane became an inspiration to many later Harlem Renaissance writers traveled to France and labored at Gurdjieff's Institute for the Harmonious Development of Man Later the writer became one of the primary followers approved to teach Gurdjieff's philosophy in the United States Woodson's is the first study of Gurdjieff Toomer and the Harlem Renaissance to look beyond contemporary portrayals of the mystic in order to judge his influence Scouring correspondence manuscripts and published texts Woodson finds the direct links in which Gurdjieff through Toomer played a major role in the development of objective literature He discovers both coded and explicit ways in which Gurdjieff's philosophy shaped the world views of writers well into the 1960s Moreover Woodson reinforces the extensive contribution Toomer and other African American writers with all their international influences made to the American cultural scene Jon Woodson an associate professor of English at Howard University in Washington D C is a contributor to the collection Black American Poets Between Worlds 1940 1960 He has published articles in African American Review and other journals American Novel Explication, 1991-1995 Catherine Glitsch, 1998 Covers criticism of American novels found in journals and books published between the years 1991 and 1995
