Sodomy, Masculinity and Law in Medieval Literature William E. Burgwinkle, 2004-07-08 William Burgwinkle surveys poetry and letters histories and literary fiction including Grail romances to offer a historical survey of attitudes towards same sex love during the centuries that gave us the Plantagenet court of Henry II and Eleanor of Aquitaine courtly love and Arthurian lore Burgwinkle illustrates how sodomy becomes a problematic feature of narratives of romance and knighthood Most texts of the period denounce sodomy and use accusations of sodomitical practice as a way of maintaining a sacrificial climate in which masculine identity is set in opposition to the stigmatised other for example the foreign the feminine and the heretical What emerges from these readings however is that even the most homophobic masculinist and normative texts of the period demonstrate an inability or unwillingness to separate the sodomitical from the orthodox These blurred boundaries allow readers to glimpse alternative even homoerotic readings

Medieval Literature on Display Alexandra Sterling-Hellenbrand, 2020-01-23 How is the medieval world depicted today Two German museums serve as case studies for a vibrant imaginative and provocative enactment of twenty first century medievalism the Museum Wolfram von Eschenbach in Wolframs Eschenbach 1995 and the Nibelung Museum in Worms 2001 Emerging around the turn of the 20th century the museums explore medieval German literature cultural memory and local history As the museums reconstruct and transform medieval narratives for the contemporary audience they enact the process of medievalism they reveal how memory through the lens of the middle ages shapes modern cultural identity and heritage Medieval Literature on Display thereby contributes to important conversations about medievalism s role in constructing and affirming cultural identity in conceptualizing and finding places for the future of the past This unique book is vital reading for scholars of medieval literature and historians of medieval Europe as well as scholars of visual culture and museum studies

Machines of the Mind Katharine Breen, 2021-05-17 Katharine Breen challenges our understanding of how medieval authors received philosophical paradigms from antiquity in their construction and use of personification in their writings She shows that our modern categories for this literary device extreme realism versus extreme rhetoric or novelistic versus allegorical characters would've been unrecognizable to their medieval practitioners Through new readings of key authors and works including Prudentius's Psychomachia Langland's Piers Plowman Boethius's Consolation of Philosophy and Dequileville's Pilgrimage of Human Life she finds that medieval writers accessed a richer more fluid literary domain than modern critics have allowed Breen identifies three different types of personification Platonic Aristotelian and Prudentian inherited from antiquity that both gave medieval writers a surprisingly varied spectrum with which to paint their characters while bypassing the modern confusion of conflicting relationships between personifications and persons on the path connecting divine power and human frailty Recalling Gregory the Great's phrase machinae mentis machines of the mind Breen demonstrates that medieval writers applied personification with utility and subtlety much the same way that within the category of hand tools an open end wrench differs in function from a hex key wrench or a socket wrench It will be read by medievalists working at the crossroads of religion philosophy and literature as well as scholars interested in character making and gendered relationships among characters readers and texts beyond the Middle Ages

The Oxford English Literary History Laura Ashe, 2017-09-15 The Oxford English Literary History is the new century's definitive account of a rich and diverse literary heritage that stretches back for a millennium and more Each of these thirteen groundbreaking volumes offers a leading scholar's considered assessment of the author's works cultural traditions events and ideas that shaped the literary voices of their age The series will enlighten and inspire not only everyone studying teaching and researching in English Literature but all serious readers This book describes and seeks to explain the vast cultural literary social and political transformations which characterized the period 1000-1350 Change can be perceived everywhere at this time Theology saw the focus shift from God the Father to the suffering Christ while religious experience became ever more highly charged with emotional affectivity and physical devotion A new philosophy of interiority turned attention inward to the exploration of self and the practice of confession expressed that interior reality with unprecedented importance The old understanding of penitence as a whole and unrepeatable event a second baptism was replaced by a new allowance for repeated repentance and penance and the possibility of continued purgation of sins after death The concept of love moved centre stage in Christ's love as a new explanation for the Passion in the love of God as the only means of governing the self and in the appearance of narrative fiction where heterosexual love was suddenly represented as the goal of secular life In this mode of writing further emerged the figure of the individual a unique protagonist bound in social and ethical relation with others from this came a profound recalibration of moral agency with reference not only to God but to society More generally the social and ethical status of secular lives was drastically elevated by the creation and celebration of courtly and chivalric ideals In England the ideal of kingship was forged and reforged over these centuries in intimate relation with native ideals of counsel and consent bound by the law In the aftermath of Magna Carta and as parliament grew in reach and importance a politics of the public sphere emerged with a literature to match These vast transformations have long been observed and documented in their separate fields The Oxford English Literary History Volume 1 1000 1350 Conquest and Transformation offers an account of these changes by which they are all connected and explicable in terms of one another
