New Negro Old Left:

New Negro, Old Left William J. Maxwell, 1999 Howard Stretch Johnson a charismatic Harlemite who graduated from Cotton Club dancer to Communist Party youth leader once claimed that in late 1930s New York 75% of black cultural figures had Party membership or maintained regular meaningful contact with the Party He stretched the truth but barely In a broad ranging revisionary account of the extensive relationship between African American literary culture and Communism in the 1920s and 1930s William J Maxwell uncovers both black literature s debt to Communism and Communism s debt to black literature reciprocal obligations first incurred during the Harlem Renaissance Juxtaposing well known and newly rediscovered works by Claude McKay Andy Razaf Mike Gold Langston Hughes Louise Thompson Richard Wright Zora Neale Hurston and Nelson Algren Maxwell maintains that the Old Soviet allied Left promoted a spectrum of exchanges between black and white authors genres theories and cultural institutions Channels opened between radical Harlem and Bolshevik Moscow between the New Negro renaissance and proletarian literature Claude McKay s 1922 23 pilgrimage to the Soviet Union for example usually recalled as a lighthearted adventure in radical tourism actually jumpstarted the Comintern s controversial nation centered program for Afro America Breaking from studies governed by Cold War investments and pivoting on the Great Depression Maxwell argues that Communism s rare sustenance for African American initiative not a seduction of Depression scarred innocents brought scores of literary New Negroes to the Old Left Richard Wright

Keneth Kinnamon, 2006-03-13 African American writer Richard Wright 1908 1960 was celebrated during the early 1940s for his searing autobiography Black Boy and fiction Native Son By 1947 he felt so unwelcome in his homeland that he exiled himself and his family in Paris But his writings changed American culture forever and today they are mainstays of literature and composition classes He and his works are also the subjects of numerous critical essays and commentaries by contemporary writers This volume presents a comprehensive annotated bibliography of those essays books and articles from 1983 through 2003 Arranged alphabetically by author within years are some 8 320 entries ranging from unpublished dissertations to book length studies of African American literature and literary criticism Also included as an appendix are addenda to the author s earlier bibliography covering the years from 1934 through 1982 This is the exhaustive reference for serious students of Richard Wright and his critics Ain't Got No Home Erin Royston Battat, 2014-03-17 Most scholarship on the mass migrations of African Americans and southern whites during and after the Great Depression treats those migrations as separate phenomena strictly divided along racial lines In this engaging interdisciplinary work Erin Royston Battat argues instead that we should understand these Depression era migrations as interconnected responses to the capitalist collapse and political upheavals of the early twentieth century During the 1930s and 1940s Battat shows writers and artists of both races created migration stories specifically to bolster the black white Left alliance Defying rigid critical categories Battat considers a wide variety of media including literary classics by John Steinbeck and Ann Petry lost novels by

Sanora Babb and William Attaway hobo novellas images of migrant women by Dorothea Lange and Elizabeth Catlett popular songs and histories and ethnographies of migrant shipyard workers This vibrant rereading and recovering of the period s literary and visual culture expands our understanding of the migration narrative by uniting the political and aesthetic goals of the black and white literary Left and illuminating the striking interrelationship between American populism and civil rights

Cuba, the United States, and Cultures of the Transnational Left, 1930-1975 John A.

Gronbeck-Tedesco, 2015-10-20 This book examines the ways in which Cuba s revolutions of 1933 and 1959 became touchstones for border crossing endeavors of radical politics and cultural experimentation over the mid twentieth century It argues that new networks of solidarity building between US and Cuban allies also brought with them perils and pitfalls that could not be separated from the longer history of US empire in Cuba As US and Cuban subjects struggled together towards common aspirations of racial and gender equality fairer distribution of wealth and anti imperialism they created a unique index of cultural work that widens our understanding of the transition between hemispheric modernism and postmodernism Canvassing poetry music journalism photographs and other cultural expressions around themes of revolution this book seeks new understanding of how race gender and nationhood could shift in meaning and materialization when traveling across the Florida Straits

Race and the Modern Artist Heather Hathaway, Josef Jařab, Jeffrey Melnick, 2003 The essays in this collection examine the disputed relationships between modernity modernism and American cultural diversity and thus add an important dimension to our understanding of 20th century literature

The Ethnic Avant-Garde Steven S. Lee, 2015-10-06 During the 1920s and 1930s American minority artists and writers collaborated extensively with the Soviet avant garde seeking to build a revolutionary society that would end racial discrimination and advance progressive art Making what Claude McKay called the magic pilgrimage to the Soviet Union these intellectuals placed themselves at the forefront of modernism using radical cultural and political experiments to reimagine identity and decenter the West Shining rare light on these efforts The Ethnic Avant Garde makes a unique contribution to interwar literary political and art history drawing extensively on Russian archives travel narratives and artistic exchanges to establish the parameters of an undervalued ethnic avant garde These writers and artists cohered around distinct forms that mirrored Soviet techniques of montage fragment and interruption They orbited interwar Moscow where the international avant garde converged with the Communist International The book explores Vladimir Mayakovsky s 1925 visit to New York City via Cuba and Mexico during which he wrote Russian language poetry in an Afro Cuban voice Langston Hughes s translations of these poems while in Moscow which he visited to assist on a Soviet film about African American life a futurist play condemning Western imperialism in China which became Broadway s first major production to feature a predominantly Asian American cast and efforts to imagine the Bolshevik Revolution as Jewish messianic arrest followed by the slow political disenchantment of the New York Intellectuals Through an absorbing collage of cross ethnic encounters that also include Herbert Biberman Sergei Eisenstein

Paul Robeson and Vladimir Tatlin this work remaps global modernism along minority and Soviet centered lines further advancing the avant garde project of seeing the world anew African American Review ,2005 As the official publication of the Division on Black American Literature and Culture of the Modern Language Association of America African American review promotes an exchange among writers and scholars in the arts humanities and social sciences who hold diverse perspectives of African American literature and culture The Black Arts Movement James Edward Smethurst,2005 Looks at the history of the Black Arts movement and its impact on culture and politics in the United States Modern American Reading Practices Philip Goldstein,2009-02-13 In this thoughtful study Phillip Goldstein shows how the valuation of aesthetics in literary criticism has become increasingly complicated in recent decades Contemporary readers not only need to look at the text s figures and structure or the author s intention but must take various media including television movies magazines and newspapers as well as the sexuality gender race or nationality of the author media or text into account In this context Goldstein argues that the study of modern reading practices most effectively preserves the autonomy of aesthetics while revealing the changing social and historical contexts of American readers Using pluralist perspectives on novels such as Frankenstein Huckleberry Finn Native Son Light in August and Jazz this study suggests that these new historical conditions have markedly expanded and transformed the ways in which Americans have defined and read literature in the last two hundred years ALA Bulletin African Literature Association,2000 Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction North Carolina. The Arizona Quarterly, 2007 Men, Mobs, and Law Rebecca Nell Hill, 2000 The University Paul A. Bové, 2000

The essays collected in this issue of boundary 2 were written in response to a call for papers that would treat the contemporary university in various regions and stages of formation around the world in light of the interaction between local and global realities Underlying this project is the assumption that profound changes in economy and world organization transform the function and value of universities in tension not only with the regional histories and forces in which particular universities function but also with what used to be called the idea of the university The authors of these essays approach this topic in two ways some present the history and current situation of the university in a given place and politics and some write of the new university's political economy as the state withdraws support for higher education and hands the institutions over to entrepreneurial and transnational corporate culture None of these essays defends the idea that the university pursues knowledge for its own sake Yet there is a tinge of nostalgia for this idea or at least for the idea that the university's task is to educate to destroy bias to cultivate Of course such an idea remains the public justification for the existence of the university especially in the advanced capitalist societies whose higher classes benefit the most from the globalization of economic production
