New Theory Of Reference Kripke Marcus And Its Origins:

The New Theory of Reference P. Humphreys, J.H. Fetzer, 2012-12-06 On January 20th 22nd and 29th 1970 Saul Kripke delivered three lectures at Princeton University They produced something of a sensation In the lectures he argued amongst other things that many names in ordinary language referred to objects directly rather than by means of associated descriptions that causal chains from language user to language user were an important mechanism for preserving reference that there were necessary a posteriori and contingent a priori truths that identity relations between rigid designators were necessary and argued more tentatively that materialist identity theories in the philosophy of mind were suspect Interspersed with this was a considerable amount of material on natural kind terms and essentialism As a result of these lectures and a related 1971 paper Identity and Necessity Kripke 1971 talk of rigid designators Hesperus and Phosphorus meter bars gold and H₂O and suchlike quickly became commonplace in philosophical circles 2 and when the lectures were published under the title Naming and Necessity in the collection The Semantics of Natural Language Davidson and Harman 1972 that volume became the biggest seller in the Reidel later Kluwer list The cluster of theses surrounding the idea that a relation of direct reference 2 exists between names and their referents is now frequently referred to as The 3 New Theory of Reference

Philosophy of the History of Philosophy Nathaniel Goldberg, 2025-11-27 Answers three urgent questions that all philosophers face How do philosophy and the history of philosophy relate how should philosophers generally approach the history of philosophy and what reasons should philosophers who are not historians of philosophy study the history of philosophy

Race, Gender, and the History of Early Analytic Philosophy Matt LaVine, 2020-06-15 Although what we now call analytic philosophy has been around at least since the turn of the twentieth century it wasn't until the latter half of the twentieth century that it became the dominant mode of philosophizing in the Western world In Race Gender and the History of Early Analytic Philosophy Matt LaVine argues that the changes associated with this shift from early analytic philosophy a revolutionary movement to later analytic philosophy the hegemon have not been sufficiently recognized While a significant portion of the analytic philosophy of the late 1900s was apolitical and conservative LaVine argues that there is much to gain by thinking of early analytic philosophy in relation to liberatory and emancipatory political aims In particular there is great potential in bringing together inquiry into critical theories of race and gender with inquiry into analytic philosophy LaVine supports this idea by discussing the philosophy of language and logic in relation to the Black Lives Matter movement the objectification of women and more Furthermore LaVine argues there is more precedent for this type of work in the history of early analytic philosophy in particular in the work of G.E. Moore Susan Stebbing Rudolf Carnap and Ruth Barcan Marcus than is traditionally recognized

Liberalism Versus Postliberalism John Allan Knight, 2013 The book provides an original analysis of the central philosophical differences between liberal and postliberal theology Knight argues that important developments in philosophy of language reveal serious problems with the central methodological commitments of liberalism and postliberalism and suggest ways in which the divide can be bridged World Philosophers and Their Works: Freud, Sigmund - Oakeshott, Michael John K.
