Methods In Comparative Plant Population Ecology:

Methods in Comparative Plant Population Ecology David Gibson, 2014-10-16 The field of plant population ecology has advanced considerably in the last decade since the first edition was published. In particular, there have been substantial and ongoing advances in statistics and modelling applications in population ecology, as well as an explosion of new techniques reflecting the availability of new technologies e.g. affordable and accurate Global Positioning Systems and advances in molecular biology. This new edition has been updated and revised with more recent examples replacing older ones where appropriate. The book's trademark question driven approach has been maintained and some important topics such as the metapopulation concept which are missing entirely from the current edition are now included throughout the text.

Conserving Plant Genetic Diversity in Protected Areas José María Iriondo, Nigel Maxted, Mohammad Ehsan Dulloo, 2008

Conservation in protected areas has focused on preserving biodiversity of ecosystems and species, whereas conserving the genetic diversity contained within species has historically often been ignored. However, maintaining genetic diversity is fundamental to food security and the provision of raw materials, and it is best preserved within plants' natural habitats. This is particularly true for wild plants that are directly related to crop species and can play a key role in providing beneficial traits such as pest or disease resistance and yield improvement. These wild relatives are presently threatened due to processes of habitat destruction and change, and methodologies have been adapted to provide in situ conservation through the establishment of genetic reserves within the existing network of protected areas. Providing a long awaited synthesis of these new methodologies, this book presents a practical set of management guidelines that can be used for the conservation of plant genetic diversity of crop wild relatives in protected areas.

Agroecology Stephen R. Gliessman, V. Ernesto Méndez, Victor M. Izzo, Eric W. Engles, 2022-09-30 Agroecology is at the forefront of transforming our food systems. This bestselling textbook provides the essential foundation for understanding this transformation in all its components: agricultural, ecological, economic, social, cultural, and political. It presents a case for food system change, explains the principles and practices underlying the ecological approach to food production, and lays out a vision for a food system based on equity and greater compatibility with the planet's life support systems. New to the fourth edition: A chapter on Alternatives to Industrial Agriculture; covering the similarities and distinctions among different approaches to sustainable agriculture; A chapter on Ecological Pest, Weed, and Disease Management; A chapter on Urban and Peri-urban Agriculture; A chapter on Agriculture and the Climate Crisis; A revised analysis and critique of the food system's embeddedness in the extractive capitalist world economy that reflects ideas in the emerging field of political agroecology. Streamlined treatment of agroecology's foundations in ecological science, making the text more compatible with typical course curricula.
