Narratives of Mexican American Women Alma M. García, 2004 Alma Garc a offers a bold new interpretation of identity formation for second generation immigrants in America The narratives of Mexican American women in higher education reveal their journeys of self discovery a process filled with tensions contradictions and ambiguities Garc a captures the spirit of their struggles to understand their sense of self culture and society Her qualitative analyses reveal the emergent processes by which these women negotiate ethnic gender and class identities with their Mexican immigrant parents and with their university communities Garc a integrates a wide range of theoretical frameworks to study educational life experiences Her findings offer significant insight into the processes of cultural continuity and change and the potential for upward mobility for immigrants Garc a proposes new university policies and curriculum changes to improve the situation for second generation students She calls for the reform of higher education in the United States to open its doors more widely to Mexican American students and other underrepresented groups to make the educational system truly reflective of the ethnic diversity that has always formed the core of American society Garc a s new book is a valuable contribution to Mexican American studies ethnic studies women s studies comparative education and sociology

Border Identifications Pablo Vila, 2009-06-03 From poets to sociologists many people who write about life on the U S Mexico border use terms such as border crossing and hybridity which suggest that a unified culture neither Mexican nor American but an amalgamation of both has arisen in the borderlands But talking to people who actually live on either side of the border reveals no single commonly shared sense of identity as Pablo Vila demonstrated in his book Crossing Borders Reinforcing Borders Social Categories Metaphors and Narrative Identities on the

U S Mexico Frontier Instead people living near the border like people everywhere base their sense of identity on a constellation of interacting factors that includes regional identity but also nationality ethnicity and race In this book Vila continues the exploration of identities he began in Crossing Borders Reinforcing Borders by looking at how religion gender and class also affect people s identifications of self and others among Mexican nationals Mexican immigrants Mexican Americans Anglos and African Americans in the Ciudad Ju rez El Paso area Among the many fascinating issues he raises are how the perception that all Mexicans are Catholic affects Mexican Protestants and Pentecostals how the discourse about proper gender roles may feed the violence against women that has made Ju rez the women s murder capital of the world and why class consciousness is paradoxically absent in a region with great disparities of wealth His research underscores the complexity of the process of social identification and confirms that the idealized notion of hybridity is only partially adequate to define people s identity on the U S Mexico border Intimate Pages of Mexican History Edith O'Shaughnessy,1920
