Negotiating Caribbean Freedom:

Negotiating Caribbean Freedom Michaeline A. Crichlow, 2005-01-24 Michaeline A Crichlow extends the contemporary critique of development projects by examining the political and discursive relationship of the state to the land based working people or smallholders in modern Jamaica. The first book of its kind Negotiating Caribbean Freedom does for Jamaican historiography and sociology what Akhil Gupta's Postcolonial Developments did for studies of India. Michaeline A Crichlow gives us an incredibly nuanced discussion of how development dominates the lives of the subsistence peasantry not through force but through the instrumentalization of social relationships that were once ends in themselves. For example what were once effective agricultural practices embedded in the every day lives of smallholders all over the island have in the interest of serving international capital been bureaucratized to the point that they are untenable to support the livelihoods of smallholders. Not content to measure the success or failure of development to deliver on its promises she discloses both the continuities and differences between development projects of very different political regimes and helps to establish why smallholders support development projects even when those projects fail to address their needs.

Wake of the Plantation Deborah A. Thomas, 2019-11-08 In 2010 Jamaican police and military forces entered the West Kingston community of Tivoli Gardens to apprehend Christopher 'Dudus' Coke who had been ordered for extradition to the United States on gun and drug running charges. By the time Coke was detained somewhere between seventy five and two hundred civilians had been killed. In Political Life in the Wake of the Plantation Deborah A. Thomas uses the incursion as a point of departure for theorizing the roots of contemporary state violence in Jamaica and in post plantation societies in general. Drawing on visual oral historical and colonial archives Thomas traces the long term legacies of the plantation system and how its governing logics continue to shape and replicate forms of violence. She places affect at the center of sovereignty to destabilize disembodied narratives of liberalism and progress and to raise questions about recognition repair and accountability. In tying theories of politics colonialism race and affect together with Jamaica's history Thomas presents a robust framework for understanding what it means to be human in the plantation's wake.

Globalization and the Post-Creole Imagination Patricia Marie Northover, Michaeline Crichlow, 2009-07-07 An interdisciplinary argument that the concept of cultural creolization must be expanded to encompass cultural productions by vulnerable populations living in situations of modern power inequalities anywhere in the world.

Contributions to Social Ontology Clive Lawson, John Spiro Latsis, Nuno Martins, 2013-01-11 Recent years have seen a dramatic re-emergence of interest in ontology. From philosophy and social sciences to artificial intelligence and computer science ontology is gaining interdisciplinary influence as a popular tool for applied research. Contributions to Social Ontology focuses specifically on these developments within the social sciences. The contributions reveal that this revived interest in social ontology involves far more than an unquestioning acceptance or application of the concepts and methods of academic philosophers. Instead as ontology permeates so many new areas social ontology itself is evolving in new and fascinating ways This book engages with these new developments pushing it forward with cutting edge new material from leading authors in this area from Roy Bhaskar to Margaret Archer It also explicitly analyzes the relationship between the new ontological projects and the more traditional approaches This book will be of great interest to students and researchers alike across the social sciences and particularly in philosophy economics and sociology

Belonging in Brixton Audrey Allwood,2020-11-19 This volume provides a unique perspective on elderly working class West Indian migrants in the UK particularly examining how they negotiate their sense of belonging Utilizing the life span gaze and including elements of oral history and narrative this ethnography provides rich insight into the ordinary lives migratory circumstances social networks and interactions with the state as residents in a sheltered housing scheme in Brixton London The author further compiles a variety of genealogy charts providing a uniquely vivid scholarly analysis of the Caribbean migrant experience both in a place and through space and time Ultimately this work contemplates how communities face change whilst at once developing a local symbolic cultural site navigating adaptation to new economic and social environments

Envisioning Caribbean Futures Brian Meeks,2007 Employing critical analysis of Caribbean intellectual thought and of the postcolonial political economy Brian Meeks sets about proposing a manifesto for the future What emerges is a programme for the medium term which is pragmatic in its efforts to deal with the current crisis without engaging in the romanticism of an all encompassing revolutionary transformation Meeks suggests a form of participatory reorganization without necessarily dismantling the fundamentals of formal democratic organization Particular emphasis is placed on rural agro producers because their empowerment politically and economically resolves the problem of elite domination while creating the conditions for economic democracy He argues finally that the proposals can become the basis for a more fundamental social and intellectual transformation from following Sylvia Wynter man to human based on democracy community and solidarity

Planning the Past Anita M. Waters,2006-01-01 Planning the Past studies the way a post colonial society reconstructs its national history and grapples with its colonial past specifically in Port Royal a Jamaican village with a dramatic history of pirates naval admirals and earthquakes Anita M Waters argues that the plans for Port Royal s heritage tourism development represent a chronological record of historical revisionism and the fact that none of the plans has been realized reflects post colonial social processes and national ambivalence about piratical and naval history This interdisciplinary study will be valuable reading for students of historiography piracy Caribbean history Caribbean politics and heritage tourism

Negotiating Freedom in the Circum-Caribbean Helen M. McKee,2019-02-05 Bringing together Jamaican Maroons and indigenous communities into one framework for the first time McKee compares and contrasts how these non white semi autonomous communities were ultimately reduced by Anglophone colonists In particular questions are asked about Maroon and Creek interaction with Anglophone communities slave catching slave ownership land conflict and dispute resolution to conclude that while important divergences occurred commonalities can be drawn between Maroon history and

Native American history and that therefore we should do more to draw Maroon communities into debates of indigenous issues    Abolitionist Places Martha Schoolman,Jared Hickman,2014-10-20 From David Brion Davis's The Problem of Slavery in the Age of Revolution to Paul Gilroy's The Black Atlantic some of the most influential conceptualizations of the Atlantic World have taken the movements of individuals and transnational organizations working to advocate the abolition of slavery as their material basis. This unique interdisciplinary collection of essays provides diverse new approaches to examining the abolitionist Atlantic. With contributions from an international roster of historians, literary scholars and specialists in the history of art, this book provides case studies in the connections between abolitionism and material spatial practice in literature, theory, history and memory. This volume covers a wide range of topics and themes, including the circum-Atlantic itineraries of abolitionist artists and activists, precise locations such as Paris and Chatham, Ontario, where abolitionists congregated to speculate over the future of and hatch emigration plans to sites in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, and the reimagining of abolitionist places in twentieth and twenty-first century literature and public art. This book was originally published as a special issue of Atlantic Studies

New West Indian Guide, 2008    Constructing Vernacular Culture in the Trans-Caribbean Holger Henke, Karl-Heinz Magister, 2008 Constructing Vernacular Culture in the Trans Caribbean traces the contradictory cultural trajectories constructed and reproduced in the fluid diasporic spaces we call the Trans Caribbean. Particular emphasis is placed on such cultural expressions that reflect or derive from the cultural vernacular and popular culture as it exists in these spaces. Its multidisciplinary approach and focus on different language areas in the Trans Caribbean are of particular interest to scholars in cultural studies, migration, literary theory and cultural criticism    Labour and the Multiracial Project in the Caribbean Sara Abraham, 2007 Labour and The Multiracial Project in the Caribbean covers major twentieth century political developments in Trinidad and Tobago and Guyana. It pays particular attention to social movements, class formation and new emancipatory ideas on liberation from colonial legacies in political structure and racial division

Caribbean Quarterly, 2006    Beyond Fragmentation Juanita De Barros, Audra Diptee, David Vincent Trotman, 2006 In this book leading scholars pull together some of the most recent research on the key themes of Caribbean history: slavery, the transition to freedom, colonialism and decolonization. Although all parts of the Caribbean experienced these phases, the manner in which they did so differed significantly in part because of their distinct imperial histories. Contemporary fragmentation and insularity have led to significant variations in the region's historiography. The contributors examine the divergent historiographical and methodological developments in the British, French, Spanish and Dutch Caribbean. By addressing these four linguistic areas of the Caribbean, they aim to overcome the traditional differences imposed by language and in the process to explore hotly debated subjects and new directions in Caribbean scholarship    Afro-Atlantic Dialogues Kevin A. Yelvington, 2006 This book breaks new theoretical and methodological ground in the study of the African diaspora in the Atlantic world. Leading scholars of archaeology, linguistics and sociocultural anthropology draw upon extensive field experiences and archival investigations of black communities in North America the Caribbean South America and Africa to challenge received paradigms in Afro American anthropology They employ dialogic approaches that demand both an awareness of the historical fashioning of anthropology s categories and selfreflexive critical research and define a new agenda for the field Paying close attention to power politics and the dynamism of never finished open ended behavioral forms and symbolic repertoires the contributors address colonialism the slave trade racism ethnogenesis New World nationalism urban identity politics the development of artworlds musics and their publics the emergence of new religious and ritual forms speech genres and contested historical representations The authors offer sophisticated interpretations of cultural change exchange appropriation and re appropriation that challenge simplistic notions of culture
