Neighbors in Turmoil James D. Cockcroft, 1989

Cuba in the American Imagination Louis A. Pérez Jr., 2008-08-15

For more than two hundred years Americans have imagined and described Cuba and its relationship to the United States by conjuring up a variety of striking images Cuba as a woman a neighbor a ripe fruit a child learning to ride a bicycle Louis A. Pérez Jr. offers a revealing history of these metaphorical and depictive motifs and discovers the powerful motives behind such characterizations of the island as they have persisted and changed since the early nineteenth century Drawing on texts and visual images produced by Americans ranging from government officials policy makers and journalists to travelers tourists poets and lyricists Pérez argues that these charged and coded images of persuasion and mediation were in service to America's imperial impulses over Cuba

From Military to Civilian Rule Constantine P. Danopoulos, 2024-09-30. Military disengagement from power in favour of a civilian government is not an uncommon phenomenon, especially in the developing world. First published in 1992, From Military to Civilian Rule is the first comparative study of the motives behind military withdrawal and the establishment of sustainable civilian rule. Using case studies from Africa, Central and South America, the Caribbean, and Europe, written by regional specialists, the book looks at the future of civil-military relations in the post-disengagement state. It reviews the factors, organizational, societal, and international, necessary for maintaining civilian rule, and it establishes conceptual themes common to the countries discussed. This volume will appeal to academics and advanced students with interests in Third World Politics, Latin American Politics, and the role of the military in the State.

Understanding the Central American Crisis Kenneth M. Coleman, George C. Herring, 1991. Urban Crime in the Age of Austerity Jeff Banister, 1995. The "Latin Explosion," Media Audiences, and the Marketing of Latino Panethnicity Katynka Zazueta Martinez, 2003. Marketers, politicians, and media institutions often refer to the Latino population as a panethnic construct, a collectivity made up of peoples of several national origins. This study describes how Latinos contribute to react to and challenge this construct. The study begins with an overview of pan-Latin American liberation movements that emerged during the period from 1810 to 1825, when many Latin American countries were engaged in the struggle for independence. The historical analysis of Latino panethnic identity also addresses Puerto Rican and Chicano civil rights movements and the diverse racial classifications of Latinos by the U.S. Census. This discussion illustrates how a Latin American collective consciousness has been invoked for purposes that range from the challenging of imperialist forces to the promotion of a niche market. While it is true that Latinos have limited control over how they are categorized, I argue that identity is never entirely imposed by market forces or the state. To make this argument, I present case studies on the creation of Latina magazine and the development of the Latin Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences (LARAS). Latina was created in 1996, and LARAS presented the first Latin Grammy award ceremony in 2000. By focusing on print music and the televisual presentation of the award ceremony I discuss the ways in which culture is transformed into a capitalist production The case studies situate the creation of Latino media within a larger body of communication research on the ideological function of popular culture and the marketing of ethnicity The textual analysis of Latina and the Latin Grammy award ceremony is enriched by an audience study conducted with Latina middle school students living in a San Diego town that borders Tijuana Mexico The study based on ethnographic work conducted over a two year period documents the ways in which young girls police the boundaries of Latino identity while actively consuming challenging and critiquing media that is marketed for them The diverse methodologies and interdisciplinary approach that inform this study serve to theorize the construction of Latino panethnic identity by situating Latinos as both consumers and producers of Latino oriented media The Other World

Joseph Weatherby,2003 This accessible text takes an interdisciplinary approach and explores the dimensions of contemporary global issues in the non Western world The Other World Fifth Edition is designed to give students an overview of contemporary issues in the developing world Using an engaging and informative interdisciplinary approach it provides students with fundamental information on current problems common to developing areas The text presents regional coverage of Latin America Africa Asia and the Middle East The authors describe the similarities and differences among nations within these regions and trace events and issues in selected countries in each region The Good Neighbor Policy and Latin
