RELIGION/CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY
RELIGION/CHRISTIANITY/CATHOLIC

MODELS OF REVELATION

Avery Cardinal Dulles

"Superbly crafted, crammed with practical information . . ."
—Religious Book Club Bulletin

The author of the classic Models of the Church here explores Christianity's central doctrine: that Christianity is based on the word of God as given to the church. Using a similar structure to his earlier book, Dulles first derives and compares five models of revelation—as doctrine, as history, as inner experience, as dialectical presence, and as new awareness. He then goes on to explore the meaning and relation of these models for theology, considering symbolic mediation, Christ as the summit of revelation, the Bible, the church, and eschatology.

"To some readers the disputes about revelation may seem excessively abstract and arid," writes Dulles. "[But] revelation is the source and center, the beginning and end, of the theological enterprise."

Avery Cardinal Dulles, S.J., (1918-2008), is widely acknowledged as one of the leading Catholic thinkers of the 20th century. A convert to Catholicism, he entered the Jesuit Novitiate in 1946 and was ordained in 1956. He received his doctorate in theology from the Gregorian University in Rome in 1960. A former president of the Catholic Theological Society of America, he taught and lectured widely, serving as Laurence J. McGinlay Professor of Religion and Society at Fordham University from 1988. He was elevated to the College of Cardinals by Pope John Paul II in 2001.

Papal Infallibility Mark E. Powell, 2009-01-27 The dogma of papal infallibility has become increasingly problematic for Roman Catholics and it is a major point of division in Christian ecumenical dialogue arguably the key issue separating Catholics and other Christians today Mark Powell here contends that papal infallibility has inevitable shortcomings as a way to secure religious certainty After introducing the doctrine he illustrates those limitations in the life and writings of four prominent Catholic theologians Henry Edward Cardinal Manning John Henry Cardinal Newman Avery Cardinal Dulles and Hans Kung Book Jacket

Religious Education in a Mediatized World Ilona Nord, Hanna Ziperovszky, 2017-05-10 In religious education digitization and mediatization processes result in the transformation of conventional media formats This leads to the development of new media formats which in turn necessitates a redefinition of the relationship between religious education and the media Keeping this in mind this volume first examines the importance of media for specific theological disciplines and then discusses current media pedagogical and media didactic approaches Later in the book the authors develop didactic perspectives on various methods these include internet based archive work and the use of digital teaching materials They also deal with current questions regarding religious education such as inclusion and cyber bullying etc Finally they identify some of the main didactic challenges for religious instruction in a mediatized world This volume is a plea for a wider understanding of education and is based in part on a German Swedish teaching and research cooperation Following this example it focuses on a future oriented networking of plural forms of education This resource is designed for students of theology and religious sciences as well as for religious education teachers

Divine Discourse Nicholas Wolterstorff,1995-10-05 Prominent in the canonical texts and traditions of Judaism Christianity and Islam is the claim that God speaks Nicholas Wolterstorff argues that contemporary speech action theory when appropriately expanded offers us a fascinating way of interpreting this claim and showing its intelligibility He develops an innovative theory of double hermeneutics along the way opposing the current near consensus led by Ricoeur and Derrida that there is something wrong headed about interpreting a text to find out what its author said Wolterstorff argues that at least some of us are entitled to believe that God has spoken Philosophers have never before in any sustained fashion reflected on these matters mainly because they have mistakenly treated speech as revelation

Covenant and Eschatology Michael Scott Horton,2002-01-01 In this innovative work in theological method and hermeneutics Michael S Horton uses the motif of the covenant as a way of binding together God s word and God s act Seeking an integration of theological method with the content of Christian theology Horton emphasizes God s covenant as God s way of working for redemption in the world Horton maintains a substantial dialogue with important philosophical figures and Christian theologians ultimately providing scholars and serious students a significant model for approaching and understanding Christian theology

The Dialectical Development of Doctrine Charles Cameron Dickinson,1999 The Doctrine of Revelation Gabriel J. Fackre,1997 This book ventures a new interpretation of revelation The author discusses the major themes in the narrative of revelation engaging critically with four of the century s giants in theology Karl Barth Paul Tillich Karl Rahner and Carl Henry These represent the four major phases in the narrative of revelation and Fackre addresses these alternative views in twentieth century theology through in depth inquiry and critical analysis The Doctrine of Revelation challenges reductionist views and strives for an ecumenical understanding that appropriates the insights from a variety of schools of thought

Max Weber in a Theological Perspective Thomas Ekstrand,2000 This book deals with the problem of how Christian theology can be integrated with secular thinking It is claimed that since modern science applies many different perspectives this integrative effort can only take place as a never ending dialogue between different interpretations of both theology and science Max Weber is often regarded as a classic interpreter of modern Western culture and the investigation is a conversation between his thinking and Christian theology interpretation of Max Weber s texts in regard to the function of views of life in modern society and suggesting one possible way of revising Christian theology so that it can be integrated with Weber's view on views of life science and modernity two basic challenges namely an epistemological challenge and a cultural challenge Christian theology as classically formulated has lost much of its credibility in the face of scientific discoveries and philosophical criticism In Weber's view it therefore is questionable if any well educated person can be rationally justified in holding on to a traditional form of Christian faith The cultural challenge implies that if religion divorces itself from modernity it risks becoming a form of escapism and thus contributing to alienation challenges it is claimed that Christian theology should be oriented towards praxis rather than towards metaphysical speculation The author here suggests one way of formulating such a theological perspective This suggestion is based around the understanding of the symbol of the kingdom of God as a way to formulate a Christian utopian realism Toward a Christian Theology of Religious Pluralism Jacques Dupuis, 1997 The results from a lifetime of study reflection and experience in both Europe and Asia is this comprehensive examination of Christian theological understandings of world religious pluralism The Billboard , 1927
