Negative Poetics

Jason Lagapa

Negative Poetics:

Negative Poetics Edward Jayne, 1992 Edward Jayne takes on the literary academy with his startling new theory based on the deceptively simple premise that intentional misrepresentation is the primary function of narrative form the lie is fiction's single most important ingredient Unless the truth is meaningfully warped distorted or reorganized fiction cannot by definition be fiction Here is a new hyperreductionist model of literary form as cognitive evasiveness as a homeostatic tension reduction strategy as paranoid fantasy that plots self justification and most fundamentally as the pursuit of affirmative alternatives to deny or designify unacceptable experience Jayne convincingly demonstrates how the static declaration of falsehoods featured by most theories of literary deception is less important than the vital enactment of a lie that takes place when a story's closure reverses its origins Literary truths are needed to give credibility to untruths but a text's primary appeal depends on making these untruths come true Jayne illustrates the dynamics of literary misrepresentation by exploring homophobic evasiveness in such texts as Heart of Darkness Hamlet The Rime of the Ancient Mariner Mending Wall Young Goodman Brown and even a rose is a rose is a rose is a rose In Hamlet for example he explains tragic denouement as the denial of androgynous tendencies expressed by metaphor while in Mending Wall he shows how these tendencies oblige continuing vigilance to avoid transgressing heterosexual barriers At the level of metatheory Jayne maintains that literary criticism is no less deceptive than the fiction it interprets the central role of literary deception demands modifications in most current approaches to literary criticism including Marxism response theory deconstructionism and new historicism In general he takes issue with poststructuralists by explaining plot as a centered context of narrative denial that creates sufficient determinate structure for effective communication to occur between authors and readers Jayne also explores narrative denial in the overall career of a particular critic Barthes and in the advancement of literary criticism from its emphasis on authenticity during the sixties to the pursuit of indeterminate cognitive alternatives over the subsequent two decades Provocative insightful and ultimately controversial Negative Poetics will be of interest to everybody who seeks to escape the current impasse in literary criticism

Literature and Religious Experience Matthew J. Smith, Caleb D. Spencer, 2022-01-13 This book challenges the status quo of studies in literature and religion by returning to experience as a bridge between theory and practice Essays focus on keywords of religious experience and demonstrate their applications in drama fiction and poetry Each chapter explores the broad significance of its keyword as a category of psychological and social behavior and tracks its unique articulation by individual authors including Conrad Beecher Stowe and Melville Together the chapters construct a critical foundation for studying literature not only from the perspectives of theology and historicism but from the ways that literary experience reflects reinforces and sometimes challenges religious experience

Incarceration in the Poetry of Anna Mendelssohn Eleanor Careless, 2025-01-23 The first full length study of the poet artist and activist Anna Mendelssohn 1948

2009 this book consolidates Mendelssohn's reputation as one of the most important avant garde British poets of her generation and explores her contribution to the powerful tradition of women writing enclosure and escape. Mendelssohn was herself incarcerated in Holloway women's prison between 1971-76 and her bold and inventive poetry foregrounds and subverts but does not triumphantly overcome conditions of constraint. Informed by extensive original archival research, this book reads her highly experimental lyric alongside the poetry of her forerunners and contemporaries including Nancy Cunard, Muriel Rukeyser, and Denise Riley, restoring to view a lost network of radical Jewish and feminist modernism. With chapters on the poetry of the Spanish Civil War, the legacy of the Holocaust, the Women's Liberation Movement, the transformation of HMP Holloway in the 1970s, and prison abolitionism, Incarceration in the Poetry of Anna Mendelssohn illuminates the historical, political, and literary contexts that shape this work and argues that Mendelssohn advances a poetics not of emancipation but of abolition.

Poetry and Apocalypse William Franke, 2008-10-10 In Poetry and Apocalypse Franke seeks to find the premises for dialogue between cultures, especially religious fundamentalisms including Islamic fundamentalism and modern Western secularism. He argues that in order to be genuinely open, dialogue needs to accept possibilities such as religious apocalypse in ways that can be best understood through the experience of poetry. Franke reads Christian epic and prophetic tradition as a secularization of religious revelation that preserves an understanding of the essentially apocalyptic character of truth and its disclosure in history. The usually neglected negative theology that undergirds this apocalyptic tradition provides the key to a radically new view of apocalypse as at once religious and poetic.

Poesis in Extremis Daniel Feldman, Efraim Sicher, 2024-02-08 This innovative study asks how genocide can be witnessed through imaginative literature and affect readers who were not there.

Negative Theology and Utopian Thought in Contemporary American Poetry Jason Lagapa, 2017-05-11 This book explores the utopian imagination in contemporary American poetry and the ways in which experimental poets formulate a utopian poetics by adopting the rhetorical principles of negative theology, which proposes using negative statements as a means of attesting to the superior unrepresentable being of God. With individual chapters on works by such poets as Susan Howe, Nathaniel Mackey, Charles Bernstein, and Alice Notley, this book illustrates how a strategy of negation similarly proves optimal for depicting the subject of utopia in literary works.

Negative Theology and Utopian Thought in Contemporary American Poetry Determined Negations contends that negative statements in experimental poetry illustrate the potential for utopian social change not by portraying an ideal world itself but by revealing the very challenge of representing utopia directly.

Word Cultures Robin Lydenberg, 1987 In this pioneering study, Robin Lydenberg focuses upon the stylistic accomplishments of this controversial and experimental writer. In doing so, she skillfully demonstrates that the ideas we now recognize as characteristic of post-structuralism and deconstruction were being developed independently by Burroughs long ago.
