Neighbourhood Threat:

Conflict, Political Accountability and Aid Paul Collier, 2013-10-31 Paul Collier's contributions to development economics and in regard to Africa in particular have marked him out as one of the most influential commentators of recent times. His research has centred upon the causes and consequences of civil war, the effects of aid and the problems of democracy in low income and natural resource rich societies. His work has also enjoyed substantial policy impact having seen him sit as a senior adviser to Tony Blair's Commission on Africa and addressed the General Assembly of the United Nations. This collection of Collier's major writings with assistance from Anke Hoeffler and Jan Gunning and accompanied by a new introduction provide the definitive account of a wide range of macroeconomic, microeconomic and political economy topics concerned with Africa. Within macroeconomics there is a focus on external shocks, exchange rate and trade policies whilst microeconomic topics focus upon labour and financial markets as well as rural development. Collier's book 'The Bottom Billion' had become a landmark book and this summation of the research underpinning it will be a superb guide for all those concerned with African development.

Superdiversity Steven Vertovec, 2022-11-15 Superdiversity explores processes of diversification and the complex emergent social configurations that now supersede prior forms of diversity in societies around the world. Migration plays a key role in these processes bringing changes not just in social, cultural, religious and linguistic phenomena but also in the ways that these phenomena combine with others like gender, age and legal status. The concept of superdiversity has been adopted by scholars across the social sciences in order to address a variety of forms, modes and outcomes of diversification. Central to this field is the relationship between social categorization and social organization including stratification and inequality. Increasingly complex categories of social difference have significant impacts across scales from entire societies to individual identities. While diversification is often met with simplifying stereotypes, threat narratives and expressions of antagonism, superdiversity encourages a perspective on difference as comprising multiple social processes, flexible collective meanings and overlapping personal and group identities. A superdiversity approach encourages the re-evaluation and recognition of social categories as multidimensional, unfixed and porous as opposed to views based on hardened one-dimensional thinking about groups. Diversification and increasing social complexity are bound to continue if not intensify in light of climate change. This will have profound impacts on the nature of global migration, social relations and inequalities. Superdiversity presents a convincing case for recognizing new social formations created by changing migration patterns and calls for a re-thinking of public policy and social scientific approaches to social difference. This introduction to the multidisciplinary concept of superdiversity will be of considerable interest to students and researchers in a range of fields in the humanities and social sciences.
