The second half of the nineteenth century witnessed a new phenomenon in public monuments and civic ornamentation Whereas in former times public statuary had customarily been reserved for warriors and statesmen kings and rulers of men a new trend was emerging for towns to commemorate their own citizens As the subjects immortalised in stone and bronze broadened beyond the traditional ruling classes to include radicals and reformers it necessitated a corresponding widening of the language and understanding of public statuary Contested Sites explores the role of these commemorations in radical public life in Britain Despite recent advances in the understanding of the importance of symbols in public discourse political monuments have received little attention from historians This is to be regretted for commemorations are statements of public identity and memory that have their politics they are embedded in complex class gender and power relations that determine what is remembered or forgotten Examining monuments plaques and tombstones commemorating a variety of popular movements and reforming individuals the contributions in Contested Sites reveal the relations that went into the making of public memory in modern Britain and its radical tradition THE JOURNAL OF THE ANTHROPOLOGICAL INSTITUTE OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND , 1873 Catalogue of the Books in the Reference Department Blackburn (England). Public Library, Museum and Art Gallery, 1907 The British Architect , 1915 Approaches to the Archaeological Heritage Henry Cleere, 1984-08-16

This book undertakes a comparative study of the history and development of legislative and administrative systems in operation today for the protection of archaeological monuments With the exception of Scandinavia and the United Kingdom no country adopted a positive policy towards the protection and conservation of its archaeological and historical heritage until the twentieth century Moreover it was not until the middle of that century under the threat of wholesale devastation from extensive schemes for social and economic development that the accelerating disappearance of the sites and monuments of Antiquity became the object of intensive study and legislation Since then systems of cultural resource management have developed throughout the world A range of countries from Europe America Asia and Africa representing a diversity of political and ideological systems capitalist socialist and ex colonial have been selected as being broadly representative of the variety of these systems The case studies have been written by distinguished archaeologists and provide critical evaluations of the objectives and shortcomings of these systems An Inventory of the Ancient and Historical Monuments with the Report of the Commission Royal Commission on the Ancient and Historical Monuments of Scotland,1920 Journal of the Royal Institute of British Architects Royal Institute of British Architects,1913 Our Navy ,1930 Proceedings of the Bunker Hill Monument Association at the Annual Meeting ... ,1896 The Best Books: F, History and historical biography.
