

LOTTIE MOON: A SHORT BIOGRAPHY

Dec. 12. – Dec. 24, 1912

Lottie Moon was a heroine for today—a woman passionate about a lost world, a woman who didn't hesitate to spend her money.

A Kingdom-focused life

Today's China is a world of rapid change. It's home to 1.3 billion individuals—one-fifth of the world's population. Village dwellers flock to trendy megacities with exploding populations. And China holds its own in the world's economy. It's very different from the vast homeland Lottie Moon entered in the 1880s. But one thing hasn't changed: China's need for a Savior.

Lottie Moon—the namesake of the international missions offering—has become something of a legend to us. But in her time Lottie was anything but an untouchable hero. In fact, she was like today's missionaries. She was a hard-working, deep-loving Southern Baptist who labored tirelessly so her people (who could know Jesus).

Her mission

When she set sail for China, Lottie was 32 years old. She had turned down a marriage proposal and left her job, home and family to follow God's lead. Her path wasn't typical for an educated woman from a wealthy Southern family. But Lottie did not serve as typical God. Her heart gripped her with the Chinese (perpetual) need for a Savior.

For 30 years Lottie labored, chiefly in Yangchow and Peking. People feared and rejected her, but she refused to leave. The animus of birth-hated people drew people to her house. She adopted traditional Chinese dress, and she learned China's language and customs. Lottie didn't just serve the people of China; she identified with them. Many eventually accepted her. And some accepted her Savior.

Her vision

Lottie's vision wasn't just for the people of China. It reached to her fellow Southern Baptists in the United States. Like today's missionaries, she wrote letters home, detailing China's hunger for truth and the struggle of too few missionaries sharing the gospel with so many people—472 million Chinese in her day. She shared another timely message, too: the urgent need for more workers and for Southern Baptists passionately supporting them through prayer and giving.

In 1912, during a time of war and famine, Lottie starved, knowing that her beloved Chinese didn't have enough food. Her fellow Christians saw the ultimate sign of love: giving her life for others. On Christmas Eve, Lottie died on a ship bound for the United States.

But her legacy lives on. And today, when gifts aren't growing as quickly as the number of workers God is calling to the field, her call for sacrificial giving rings with more urgency than ever.
