Changing the Odds for Children at Risk Susan B. Neuman,2008-11-30 Schools today are in the midst of the most major costly educational reform movement in their history as they grapple with the federal mandates to leave no children behind says author Susan B Neuman former Assistant Secretary for Elementary and Secondary Education under President George W Bush Although some efforts for investing resources will be substantially more productive than others there is little evidence that despite many heroic attempts to beat the odds any of these efforts will close more than a fraction of the differences in achievement for poor minority children and their middleclass peers As Neuman explains in this insightful revealing book schools will fail not due to the soft bigotry of low expectations but because there are multitudes of children growing up in circumstances that make them highly vulnerable Children who come to school from dramatically unequal circumstances leave school with similarly unequal skills and abilities In these pages however Neuman shows how the odds can be changed how we can break the cycle of poverty and disadvantage for children at risk After laying the critical groundwork for the need for change excessive waste with little effect this book provides a vivid portrait of changing the odds for high poverty children Describing how previous reforms have missed the mark it offers a framework based on seven essential principles for implementing more effective programs and policies Building on successes while being fiscally responsible is a message that has been shown to have wide bipartisan appeal embraced by both liberals and conservatives Following Neuman s essential principles chapters describe programs for changing the odds for children when the cognitive gaps are beginning to form in these earliest years of their lives In a highly readable style Neuman highlights programs that are making a difference in children s lives across the country weaving together narratives that tell a compelling story of hope and promise for our most disadvantaged children
