Masters Of The Sacred Page:

Masters of the Sacred Page Lesley Janette Smith, 2001 Starting with the premise that the history of a medieval subject cannot be properly written without recourse to the materials it produced Lesley Smith's Masters of the Sacred Page provides an illuminating study of theology in the Middle Ages She focuses on the dramatic transformations of the discipline in the twelfth century and uses a collection of contemporary manuscripts as a guide to its changes and developments Smith points out that the medieval masters of theology had a much wider view of their subject than the modern academic tendency for neatness and division can easily admit and she places their discipline squarely within the rapidly evolving intellectual and educational context of the twelfth century university Her approach avoids two of the most common weaknesses of modern historical studies of medieval theology In the first place those histories have a tendency to be distorted by a reliance on easily available printed editions of medieval texts the bulk of which are summae and other logical systematic treatments This preponderance however often reflects the concerns and interests of nineteenth and twentieth century editors more than it does the medieval masters Biblical commentaries sermons and manuals for pastoral use have only recently begun to be edited and printed in numbers reflecting their importance and widespread use in the Middle Ages Smith includes such material in her study In the second place traditional histories have a tendency to remove the study of theology from the actual environment of the medieval university and therefore fail to account for the complex relations between theology the arts and the burgeoning disciplines of medicine and law By refusing to follow this trend Smith has greatly improved our awareness of the situation of medieval theology Using the manuscript books themselves as witnesses Smith shows how theology competed with other disciplines for students as well as teachers how it attempted to define itself and how it cooperated with other disciplines to foster new development in book technology and new traditions in the social and intellectual culture of the medieval university

Masters of the Sacred Page Lesley Janette Smith, 2001 Entangled Histories Elisheva Baumgarten, Ruth Mazo Karras, Katelyn Mesler, 2016-11-29 From Halakhic innovation to blood libels from the establishment of new mendicant orders to the institutionalization of Islamicate bureaucracy and from the development of the inquisitorial process to the rise of yeshivas universities and madrasas the long thirteenth century saw a profusion of political cultural and intellectual changes in Europe and the Mediterranean basin These were informed by and in turn informed the religious communities from which they arose In city streets and government buildings Jews Christians and Muslims lived worked and disputed with one another sharing and shaping their respective cultures in the process The interaction born of these relationships between minority and majority cultures from love and friendship to hostility and violence can be described as a complex and irreducible entanglement The contributors to Entangled Histories Knowledge Authority and Jewish Culture in the Thirteenth Century argue that this admixture of persecution and cooperation was at the foundation of Jewish experience in the Middle Ages The thirteen essays are organized into three major sections focusing in turn on the exchanges among intellectual communities on the interactions between secular and religious authorities and on the transmission of texts and ideas across geographical linguistic and cultural boundaries Rather than trying to resolve the complexities of entanglement contributors seek to outline their contours and explain how they endured In the process they examine relationships not only among Jewish Christian and Muslim communities but also between communities within Judaism those living under Christian rule and those living under Muslim rule and between the Jews of southern and northern Europe The resulting volume develops a multifaceted account of Jewish life in Europe and the Mediterranean basin at a time when economic cultural and intellectual exchange coincided with heightened interfaith animosity Contributors Elisheva Baumgarten Piero Capelli Mordechai Z Cohen Judah Galinsky Elisabeth Hollender Kati Ihnat Ephraim Kanarfogel Katelyn Mesler Ruth Mazo Karras Sarah J Pearce Rami Reiner Yossef Schwartz Uri Shachar Rebecca Winer Luke Yarbrough
