Masterpieces Of Italian Violin Making 1620 185:

Masterpieces of Italian Violin Making (1620-1850) David Rattray, 2000-12-13 This book presents a unique view of the work of the great Italian violin makers from the 17th to the 19th centuries based on the collection of The Royal Academy of Music in London The Academy founded in 1822 is Britain's senior conservatory and one of the oldest institutions in the world for advanced musical training Included here are masterpieces by Amati Cappa Celoniatto Ceruti Dalla Costa Deconet Gagliano Grancino Guadagnini Guarneri Landolfi Pressenda Rota Rugeri Seraphin Sorsana Stradivari Tecchler and Testore This revised edition has an updated descriptive text features 15 extra entries devotes at least two full color spreads to each instrument and is supplemented with a new dendrochronological study Specially commissioned photographs display each violin viola or cello with large high quality illustrations revealing details of these instruments as never before The Academy's collection of stringed instruments consists of around 100 violins and a similar combined number of violas and celli the majority of which were received as gifts over the last century beginning with the Rutson Bequest in 1906 These working instruments are maintained in fine playing condition and generally are in the hands of young musicians during their time as students or at the outset of their careers The fine selection presented here underlines the collection's core of masterpiece Italian violins and for the most part this book includes only those instruments in the purest state of conservation

Cremona: an Account of the Italian Violin-makers and Their Instruments Friedrich Niederheitmann, 1894 Cremona Friedrich Niederheitmann, 2017-09-16 Excerpt from Cremona An Account of the Italian Violin Makers and Their Instruments Although many experts have already set forth the result of their knowledge and skill in publications of more or less merit on the subject of bowed instruments there is still a want which it would be as desirable as praiseworthy to supply that is as regards the characteristic features of the Italian masters of the art of violin making The Author has set himself the task of collecting as much from the actual instruments themselves as from ancient and modern literature both foreign and native the names of the masters with the greatest possible accuracy and care and also of describing the work of each individual He has omitted to dwell upon those stringed instruments which preceded the violin and from which it may have been developed because those materials have been sufficiently dealt with 5 and he begins with the origin of the violin itself so that the reader may learn how to estimate the genuineness and the value of the Italian instruments so far as it may be possible from the description accorded to them Although many instruments have passed through the Author's hands he is still far from saying that he has seen all those which are described here He mentions with peculiar pleasure an excellent work from which he has learnt much and of which he has made use and he can do this with the greater confidence because the author of that work is known to him personally as an authority of the first rank in his art The title of this work is The Violin its Famous Makers and their Imitators by George Hart London 187 5 About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works CREMONA FRIEDRICH.
