ЕНТУЗІЯЗМ

The background of the title card is a complex, abstract composition. It features several concentric circles and overlapping geometric shapes in shades of blue, green, brown, and orange. The word "ЕНТУЗІЯЗМ" is repeated in a stylized, blocky font, with some instances appearing in white and others in orange, creating a sense of depth and movement. The overall aesthetic is characteristic of the Constructivist movement in Soviet cinema.

Alexander Dovzhenko George O. Liber, 2002 Along with Sergei Eisenstein and Vsevolod Pudovkin Alexander Dovzhenko became one of the major pioneers of Soviet filmmaking During his thirty year career his films including Zvenyhora Arsenal Earth and Ivan won international acclaim and have become influential classics of the silent and early sound eras Combining images from Ukrainian history and folklore stark realism visual poetry propaganda and gentle humor his films celebrated nature and man's relationship to the land From his humble beginnings in the Ukrainian peasantry Dovzhenko developed into a volatile artist with a great belief in cinema as an art form for the people Fearing arrest and execution he had to come to terms with the Stalinist order and compromised his vision for his later films Aerograd Shchors and Michurin Despite his concessions his creative work inspired the first post Stalinist generation of filmmakers and writers to challenge prevailing Soviet and artistic orthodoxies Based on archival research in Moscow and Kiev and interviews with Dovzhenko's colleagues and students George O. Liber provides the first definitive account in any language of this important director's personal and professional life Liber's biography explores the political context of Dovzhenko's filmmaking investigates the divisions between his public and private worlds and analyses his contradictions illusions misrepresentations and struggles within and against the Stalinist system Film Essays and a Lecture Sergei Eisenstein, 2014-07-14 Sergei Eisenstein's greatness lies not only in his films such as Potemkin or Ivan the Terrible or his contributions to the technique and art of the cinema but also in his contributions as a theoretician and philosopher of the art This edition includes a new translation of Eisenstein's essay on Orozco Originally published in 1982 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again

Eisenstein at 100 Albert J. LaValley, Barry P. Scherr, 2001 Like many other figures once closely associated with the Soviet state the great Russian filmmaker Sergei Eisenstein has become the subject of renewed interest. A decade after the fall of the Soviet Union and with fresh material on his life and art now available a more complex picture of Eisenstein is emerging. This collection featuring the work of major film theorists and Russian scholars offers the first post-Soviet reconsideration of Eisenstein's contribution to world cinema. The contributors address themes previously avoided by Soviet critics such as sexuality, religion, gender, and politics in The Battleship Potemkin, October, Alexander Nevsky, and Ivan the Terrible. These films and others are also reassessed in light of a more thorough knowledge of Eisenstein's life and of the complicated historical, cultural, and political contexts in which he worked. Of particular concern here is Eisenstein's struggle with Soviet censorship which resulted in a tenuous balance between the pressures of the state and his goals as an artist. Essays explore the manner in which Eisenstein's later theoretical writings reveal continuity with the more well-known earlier work, issues of historical revisionism, and the relationship between autobiography and the films. Eisenstein's undeniable influence on his contemporaries and subsequent generations as well as his reception by the film community and the public are illuminated. Rather than fostering the popular image of Eisenstein as the inventor of film montage, the director of Potemkin and the enthusiastic early supporter of the Bolsheviks, Eisenstein at 100 presents a much richer and more profound picture of Eisenstein: the man, the director, and the film theorist.
