Encyclopedia of Cross-Cultural School Psychology Caroline S. Clauss-Ehlers, 2010-02-18 With contributions from leading school psychology practitioners this encyclopedia provides a one of a kind guide to cross cultural school psychology Some 400 entries explore concepts themes and the latest research findings to answer your questions in all aspects of the field Moreover the encyclopedia offers support at all levels of primary and secondary education from pre K to 12th grade Each entry offers a description of a particular term a bibliography and additional readings The editor is widely known for her bi weekly Spanish language columns and her appearances on television and radio as a cross cultural expert Determinants of Minority Mental Health and Wellness Sana Loue, Martha Sajatovic, 2008-12-19 The United States is experiencing a dramatic shift in demographics with minorities comprising a rapidly growing proportion of the population It is anticipated that this will likely lead to substantial changes in previously established values needs and priorities of the population including health and mental health for individuals families and society at large This volume focuses on determinants of minority mental health and wellness This emphasis necessarily raises the question of just who is a minority and how is minority to be defined The term has been defined in any number of ways Wirth 1945 p 347 offered one of the earliest definitions of minority We may define a minority as a group of people who because of their physical or cultural characteristics are singled out from the others in the society in which they live for differential and unequal treatment and who therefore regard themselves as objects of collective discrimination The existence of a minority in a society implies the existence of a corresponding dominant group enjoying higher social status and greater privileges The Complete Systemic Supervisor ,1997 A preparatory text for students preparing to write the Supervisory Philosophy Statement and Case Study required for the Approved Supervision application for the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy The 26 contributors outline contextual variables such as gender sexual orientation ethnicity and class to increase sensitivity and the contexts in which supervision occurs including academic settings agencies and private practices Additionally discussions of supervision philosophy and pragmatics help students develop their own game plan to meet supervision challenges and requirements Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Mental Health of Ethnic Minorities Felicisima C. Serafica,1990-12-07 Based on a conference held at Ohio State University this volume focuses on the unique mental health needs of ethnic minorities Four sections cover psychopathology advances in assessment advances in treatment the current state of knowledge including university professional and government roles Each section presents an introduction to its theme as well as three papers The papers individually relate the section theme to three ethnic groups Black Hispanic and Asian Americans Distinguished by its developmental as well as clinical orientation this graduate level textbook is also an excellent reference for professionals in the fields of mental health social work education and medicine The field of Minority Mental Health promises to produce research which will promote the welfare of ethnic minorities and contribute to the understanding of nonminorities Toward this goal the editors and contributors of Mental Health of Ethnic Minorities review the current state of knowledge as it relates to mental health problems assessment and treatment They suggest new directions for research They also provide a vehicle to disseminate research findings to the service provider professional training programs and the graduate student Applying Critical Social Theories to Family Therapy Practice Teresa McDowell,2015-03-18 This volume applies critical social theories to family therapy practice using sociopolitical context for a clearer focus on the power dynamics of couple and family relationships Its decolonizing approach to therapy is shown countering the pervasive cultural themes that grant privilege to specific groups over others feeding unequal and oppressive relationships that bring families and couples to treatment Therapy is shown here as a layered and nuanced process with practitioners developing an ethical human rights perspective toward their work as they aid clients in negotiating for greater justice and equity in their relationships The book bridges theory and practice by giving readers these essential tools Strategies for asking clients about social class A framework for understanding gender issues within the larger patriarchy Guidelines for relating concepts of race and class in therapy Structure for creating the family cartography Ways to utilize a queer perspective in therapy Illustrative case examples throughout Breaking new ground in family therapy Applying Critical Social Theories to Family Therapy Practice challenges social workers social work researchers therapists and psychologists to push beyond current ideas of social awareness and cultural competence toward truly liberatory client centered practice

A Qualitative Study Dauphine L. Billingsley, 2018 The purpose of this qualitative study was to examine and explore African Americans perception of family therapy and treatment as it pertains to key barriers of service utilization Specifically the study examined the role that culture plays on the lack of service utilization as well as how cultural factors shape the attitudes and beliefs of African Americans regarding mental health family therapy and treatment In addition this study was designed to link historical and present day ecological systems that continue to impact the African American community Three separate focus groups were utilized to explore the research question that guided this study How do African Americans perceive family therapy and treatment 18 African Americans 25 years of age and older discussed their perceptions attitudes and beliefs regarding family therapy and treatment Focus groups were audio recorded and transcribed for analysis Six themes emerged cultural understanding cultural barriers cause of mental strain coping mechanisms cultural support and cultural communication Findings support previous research that highlight the uniqueness of African Americans and the important role that culture plays on treatment seeking behaviors Suggestions for overcoming barriers and future research are discussed

Directory of Financial Aids for Minorities ,1991 Encyclopedia of Women and Gender, Two-Volume Set Judith Worell, 2001-10-16 The study of gender differences began in earnest in the 1970s and has since increased dramatically to infiltrate virtually all fields of study in the social and behavioral sciences Along the way it was discovered that while women very often think and behave differently than do men industrialized societies cater to masculine perspectives The Psychology of Women emerged as a field of study focusing on just those areas in which women most often butted against assumed roles And similarly in the 1990s the Psychology of Men emerged to focus on the same issues for men The Encyclopedia of Gender covers all three areas under one cover discussing psychological differences in personality cognition and behavior as well as biologically based differences and how those differences impact behavior Coverage includes studies of these differences in applied settings such as education business the home in politics sports competition etc Key Features Over 100 In depth chapters by leading scholars in the psychology of women and gender Addresses critical questions of similarities and differences in gendering across diverse groups challenging myths about gender polarization and the Venus Mars distinction Broad coverage of topics from theory and method to development personality violence sexuality close relationships work health and social policy Sensitive attention to multicultural and cross cultural research Clearly written readable comprehensive with helpful guides outline glossary reference list Raises difficult questions related to power inequality ethics and social justice Challenges the reader to
