Melnick,2013-04-17 Change is the essence of progress We now stand at the crossroads of our civilization where change is essential in the conduct of our institutions in the plans and models we project for the future and in the very patterns of our thinking if we are to survive as one nation under God with liberty and justice for all Opportunity to participate and fulfill the responsibility of building the nation must be available to all citizens in a true republic For the viability of governmental institutions in a modern democratic nation state rests on the diversity of the genius of her citizens and this enables the nation to accommodate herself better to changes of the times But if the nation becomes impervious to change and resistant to modify its institutions to keep in pace with the times then the nation will indeed be doomed to wither and perish History is replete with examples of civilizations that have gone that course It is therefore our responsibility to insure that our government institutions are kept receptive to change and reflective of the needs and concerns of her citizenry In America today economic and social powers generally go to those who can claim a superior education and professional experience As our society and indeed the world becomes increasingly dependent on science and technology education in those fields becomes imperative to the power equation

Pipeline,2011-07-29 In order for the United States to maintain the global leadership and competitiveness in science and technology that are critical to achieving national goals we must invest in research encourage innovation and grow a strong and talented science and technology workforce Expanding Underrepresented Minority Participation explores the role of diversity in the science technology engineering and mathematics STEM workforce and its value in keeping America innovative and competitive According to the book the U S labor market is projected to grow faster in science and engineering than in any other sector in the coming years making minority participation in STEM education at all levels a national priority Expanding Underrepresented Minority Participation analyzes the rate of change and the challenges the nation currently faces in developing a strong and diverse workforce Although minorities are the fastest growing segment of the population they are underrepresented in the fields of science and engineering Historically there has been a strong connection between increasing educational attainment in the United States and the growth in and global leadership of the economy Expanding Underrepresented Minority Participation suggests that the federal government industry and post secondary institutions work collaboratively with K 12 schools and school systems to increase minority access to and demand for post secondary STEM education and technical training The book also identifies best practices and offers a comprehensive road map for increasing involvement of underrepresented minorities and improving the quality of their education It offers recommendations that focus on academic and social support institutional roles teacher preparation affordability and program development

IN SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING. (REV. OF US1SF2 86R01). National Science Foundation (U.S.),1990 Losing the Precious Few Richard Tapia,2022-04-30 A professor for almost 50 years in Rice University's Department of Computational and Applied Mathematics nationally acclaimed scholar Richard Tapia is struck by the number of Chinese students in the hallways and wonders how the United States can remain globally competitive Tapia asserts it is critical to the nation's health and well being to improve the representation of the precious few or domestic minority groups in STEM education and careers African Americans and Latinos alone make up 31% of the population and he writes the country cannot maintain its economic and scientific health when such a large part of the population is left out of science and engineering In addition he contends the United States will not have racial justice without educational justice Underrepresented groups must have equal access to higher education This thought provoking book examines issues that contribute to the lack of minorities in graduate STEM programs including a dependence on standardized tests deficiencies in K 12 education and historic and ongoing racism As a long time mentor he has seen first hand that professors have lower expectations of these students In a survey of Rice University faculty only 6% agreed that underrepresented minorities have talent in the field of study Unfortunately professors often interpret poor performance for lack of ability despite the undoubtable fact that most of these students have not had the same quality education as their Anglo peers and are therefore not as well prepared Providing a road map to increase the representation of domestic minority learners in academia and STEM fields this is a must read for university administrators and professors who want to attract and retain a diverse student body In addition Tapia includes advice for students their parents and teachers who will also benefit from his wisdom and years of experience serving as a mentor to those from diverse backgrounds
