Miriam's Kitchen A Memoir:

Miriam's Kitchen Elizabeth Ehrlich, 1998-09-01 Like many Jewish Americans Elizabeth Ehrlich was ambivalent about her background She identified with Jewish cultural attitudes but not with the institutions she had fond memories of her Jewish grandmothers but she found their religious practices irrelevant to her life It wasn't until she entered the kitchen and world of her mother in law Miriam a Holocaust survivor that Ehrlich began to understand the importance of preserving the traditions of the past As Ehrlich looks on Miriam methodically and lovingly prepares countless kosher meals while relating the often painful stories of her life in Poland and her immigration to America These stories trigger a kind of religious awakening in Ehrlich who as she moves tentatively toward reclaiming the heritage she rejected as a young woman gains a new appreciation of life's possibilities choices and limitations

Miriam's Kitchen Elizabeth Ehrlich, 1997 The author presents the calendar year with recipes and remembrances for as she cooked with her mother in law a Holocaust survivor she learned other secrets as well for as Miriam cooked she talked about growing up in a Polish village about the war years about pioneer times in Israel about becoming a Yankee about worlds lost and survival

Scenes of the Apple Tamar Heller, Patricia Moran, 2012-02-01 Focusing on women's writing of the last two centuries Scenes of the Apple traces the intricate relationship between food and body image for women Ranging over a variety of genres including novels culinary memoirs and essays the contributors explore works by a diverse group of writers including Mary Elizabeth Braddon Toni Morrison Tsitsi Dangarembga and Jeanette Winterson as well as such nonliterary documents as discussions of Queen Victoria's appetite and news coverage of suffragettes hunger strikes Moreover in addressing works by Hispanic African American Jewish and lesbian writers the book explodes the myth that only white privileged and heterosexual women are concerned with body image and shows the many cultural contexts in which food and cooking are important in women's literature Above all the essays pay tribute to the rich and multiple meanings of food in women's writing as a symbol for all kinds of delightful and transgressive desires

New Essays on Life Writing and the Body Christopher Stuart, Stephanie Todd, 2009-03-26 In light of materialist revisions of the Cartesian dual self and the increased recognition of memoir and autobiography as a crucial cultural index the physical body has emerged in the last twenty five years as an increasingly inescapable object of inquiry speculation and theory that intersects all of the various subgenres of life writing New Essays on Life Writing and the Body thus offers a timely original focused and yet appropriately interdisciplinary study of life writing This collection brings together new work by established authorities in autobiography such as Timothy Dow Adams G Thomas Couser Cynthia Huff and others along with essays by emerging scholars in the field Subjects range from new interpretations of well known autobiographies by Edith Wharton Gertrude Stein and Lucy Grealy as well as scholarly surveys of more recently defined subgenres such as the numerous New Woman autobiographies of the late 19th century adoption narratives and sibling memoirs of the mentally impaired Due to their wide interdisciplinary focus these essays will prove valuable not only to more traditional literary scholars interested in the classic literary autobiography but also to those in Women's Studies Ethnic and African American Studies as well as in emerging fields such as Disability Studies and Cognitive Studies
