WILLIAM MATTHEWS

MISGIVINGS

"Perhaps you'll tire of me," muses my love, although she's like a great city to me, or a park that finds new ways to wear each flounce of light and investiture of weather.
Soil doesn't tire of rain, I think, but I know what she fears: plans warp, planes explode, topsoil gets peeled away by floods. And worse than what we can't control is what we could; those drab, scuttled marriages we shed so gratefully may augur we're on our own.

for good reasons. "Hi, honey," chirps Dread when I come through the door; "you're home." Experience is a great teacher of the value of experience, its claustrophobic prudence, its gloomy name-the-disasters-in-advance charisma. Listen, my wary one, it's far too late to unlove each other. Instead let's cook something elaborate and not invite anyone to share it but eat it all up very very slowly.

Misgivings Poems:

Misgivings Charles Kenneth Williams, 2000 Williams's father was an ordinary businessman angry demanding addicted to the tension he created with the people he loved a man who could recite the Greek myths to his son yet vowed never to apologize to anybody Williams's mother was a housewife a woman with a great capacity for pleasure who was stoical about the family's dire early poverty yet remained affected by it even when they became well off Together these two formed what Williams calls the conspiracy that made me who I am His account of their life together and of their deaths his father's in a final abandonment of the will to live his mother's with calm resignation is a literary form of the reconciliation the family achieved at the end of his parents' lives composed as a series of short takes a double helix of experience and recollection

Kilgore-Caradec,2013-01-16 Complete poems are bulky and too heavy to carry around Collected poems pretend to be complete but usually are not Selected poems are altogether unpretentious and reader friendly But they can be problematic Who decides what poems are important for inclusion in a volume of selected poems When the selection occurs during the author s lifetime may one assume that the author was involved What motivates the choice of one poem over another How do readers preferences influence this choice How do new readers and familiar readers of a poet negotiate the poems that are left out of the selection The essays in this volume address these questions in a variety of ways and also provide an overview of poetic writing from modernist poets to the present day using selections from the 1940s until now They offer new insight into the uses both pedagogical and critical of selection Because Selected Poems usually address a large general public these essays have also been written for all those who wish to know more about how these slimmer more attractive volumes are produced

Misgivings ,1890 Patriotism and Poetry in Eighteenth-Century Britain

Dustin Griffin,2005-11-17 The poetry of the mid and late eighteenth century has long been regarded as primarily private and apolitical in this wide ranging study Dustin Griffin argues that in fact the poets of the period were addressing the great issues of national life rebellion at home imperial wars abroad an expanding commercial empire an emerging new British national identity Taking up the topic of patriotic verse Griffin shows that poets such as Thomas Gray Christopher Smart Oliver Goldsmith and William Cowper were engaged in the century long debate about the nature of true patriotism A Sacerdotal Poetics Kathryn Wills,2023-03-06 This book offers a new way of understanding the old conflict between iconophiles and iconoclasts by exploring the way images in poetry are used by one poet W B Yeats and his translator Yves Bonnefoy Using the phenomenology of Jean Luc Marion as a tool of interpretation the book suggests further that translation is a significant act in which one entire theological world of a Protestant poet may become a completely different Catholic one when the translation is performed by a culturally Catholic poet For Bonnefoy therefore the act of translation becomes a profound act of hope

Performing the Literary Interview John Rodden, 2001-01-01 When authors are interviewed about their books or themselves much more is going on than a simple conversation. The interview becomes a performance space for authorial orchestration and self promotion and interviewers in turn respond to such self display and theatrics. Featuring absorbing conversations with nine well known authors including poets Richard Howard and Gerald Stern, novelist Isabel Allende and scholar intellectual Camille Paglia. Performing the Literary Interview is the first in depth look at this type of performance art. Interviews with poets, fiction writers and intellectuals enable John Rodden to identify a range of rhetorical strategies and their effects and to formulate a typology for appreciating the various roles that interviewers and interviewees assume. Traditionalists foreground their work rather than themselves; raconteurs are storytellers who skillfully spin anecdotes and creatively showcase their personalities and advertisers more explicitly use the literary interview to promote and sell themselves. This pioneering persuasive study stakes a claim to a new area of scholarly inquiry in the humanities. The literary interview can no longer be considered only as a voyeuristic window on an author or a celebrity vehicle or even an entertaining diversion but should also be approached as a serious genre meriting scholarly attention and analysis.

The

Idea of Infancy in Nineteenth-Century British Poetry D.B. Ruderman, 2016-04-28 This book radically refigures the conceptual and formal significance of childhood in nineteenth century English poetry. By theorizing infancy as a poetics as well as a space of continual beginning, Ruderman shows how it allowed poets access to inchoate, uncanny and mutable forms of subjectivity and art. While recent historicist studies have documented the freshness of experience childhood confers on 19th century poetry and culture, this book draws on new formalist and psychoanalytic perspectives to rethink familiar concepts such as immortality, the sublime and the death drive as well as forms and genres such as the pastoral, the ode and the ballad. Ruderman establishes that infancy emerges as a unique structure of feeling simultaneously with new theories of lyric poetry at the end of the eighteenth century. He then explores the intertwining of poetic experimentation and infancy in Wordsworth, Anna Barbauld, Blake, Coleridge, Erasmus, Darwin, Sara, Coleridge, Shelley, Matthew, Arnold, Tennyson and Augusta Webster. Each chapter addresses and analyzes a specific moment in a writer's work, moments of tenderness or mourning, birth or death, physical or mental illness, when infancy is analogized, eulogized or theorized. Moving between canonical and archival materials and combining textual and inter-textual reading, metrical and prosodic analysis and post-Freudian psychoanalytic theory, the book shows how poetic engagements with infancy anticipate psychoanalytic and phenomenological, i.e. modern ways of being in the world. Ultimately, Ruderman suggests that it is not so much that we return to infancy as that infancy returns obsessively compulsively in us. This book shows how by tracking changing attitudes towards the idea of infancy, one might also map the emotional, political and aesthetic terrain of nineteenth century culture. It will be of interest to scholars in the areas of British romanticism and Victorianism as well as 19th century American literature and culture histories of childhood and representations of the child from art historical cultural studies and literary perspectives D B Ruderman s The Idea of Infancy in Nineteenth Century British Poetry Romanticism Subjectivity Form is an interesting contribution to this field and it manages to bring a new perspective to our understanding of Romantic era and Victorian representations of infancy and childhood a supremely exciting book that will be a key work for generations of readers of nineteenth century poetry Isobel Armstrong Birkbeck University of London Victorian Studies 59 4 Poetry Harriet Monroe,1918 Latin Literature of the Empire: Poetry Alfred Gudeman,1899 Victorian Poetry ,2006 God and Two Poets Anthony Kenny,1988 English Poetry of the Nineteenth Century George Roy Elliott,Norman Foerster,1923 Forms of English Poetry Charles Frederick Johnson,1904
