Remote Jobs Step By Step:

Grid Computing Fran Berman, Geoffrey Fox, Anthony J. G. Hey, 2003-04-18 Grid computing is applying the resources of many computers in a network to a single problem at the same time Grid computing appears to be a promising trend for three reasons 1 Its ability to make more cost effective use of a given amount of computer resources 2 As a way to solve problems that can't be approached without an enormous amount of computing power 3 Because it suggests that the resources of many computers can be cooperatively and perhaps synergistically harnessed and managed as a collaboration toward a common objective A number of corporations professional groups university consortiums and other groups have developed or are developing frameworks and software for managing grid computing projects The European Community EU is sponsoring a project for a grid for high energy physics earth observation and biology applications In the United States the National Technology Grid is prototyping a computational grid for infrastructure and an access grid for people Sun Microsystems offers Grid Engine software Described as a distributed resource management tool Grid Engine allows engineers at companies like Sony and Synopsys to pool the computer cycles on up to 80 workstations at a time the Grid is a very hot topic generating broad interest from research and industry e.g. IBM Platform Avaki Entropia Sun HP Grid architecture enables very popular e Science projects like the Genome project which demand global interaction and networking In recent surveys over 50% of Chief Information Officers are expected to use Grid technology this year Grid Computing Features contributions from the major players in the field Covers all aspects of grid technology from motivation to applications Provides an extensive state of the art guide in grid computing This is essential reading for researchers in Computing and Engineering physicists statisticians engineers and mathematicians and IT policy makers

Software Pioneers Manfred Broy, Ernst Denert, 2012-12-06 A lucid statement of the philosophy of modular programming can be found in a 1970 textbook on the design of system programs by Gouthier and Pont 1 l Cf10 23 which we quote below A well defined segmentation of the project effort ensures system modularity Each task forms a separate distinct program module At implementation time each module and its inputs and outputs are well defined there is no confusion in the intended interface with other system modules At checkout time the integrity of the module is tested independently there are few scheduling problems in synchronizing the completion of several tasks before checkout can begin Finally the system is maintained in modular fashion system errors and deficiencies can be traced to specific system modules thus limiting the scope of detailed error searching Usually nothing is said about the criteria to be used in dividing the system into modules This paper will discuss that issue and by means of examples suggest some criteria which can be used in decomposing a system into modules A Brief Status Report The major advancement in the area of modular programming has been the development of coding techniques and assemblers which 1 allow one module to be written with little knowledge of the code in another module and 2 allow modules to be reassembled and replaced without reassembly of the whole system
