detail about the analysis and properties of olives and their oil After an introduction to olive oil and to technological aspects we include a section on biochemistry because of course the unique properties of the oil are based on the biochemistry of the olive fruit This applies not only to the main constituents the various triacylglycerols but also to minor sensory components that are derived largely from the lipoxygenase catabolic pathway Following are chapters that deal with the analysis of olive oil from the standpoint of general methodology and later chapters describe detailed techniques The sophisticated analytical methods have to be evaluated by the use of mathematical procedures for characterization
