Perspectives on Environment and Behavior Daniel Stokols, 2013-11-11 The inception of this volume can be traced to a series of Environmental Psychology Colloquia presented at the University of California Irvine during the spring of 1974. These colloquia were held in conjunction with Social Ecology 252 a graduate seminar on Man and the Environment. Although the eight colloquia covered a wide range of topics and exemplified a diversity of research techniques they seemed to converge on some common theoretical and methodological assumptions about the nature of environment behavioral research. The apparent continuities among these colloquia suggested the utility of developing a manuscript that would provide a historical overview of research on environment and behavior a representation of its major concerns and an analysis of its conceptual and empirical trends. Thus expanded versions of the initial presentations were integrated with a supplemental set of invited manuscripts to yield the present volume of original contributions by leading researchers in the areas of ecological and environmental psychology. Human Behavior and Environment Irwin Altman, Joachim F. Wohlwill, 2013-11-11 This is the first in a series of volumes concerned with research encompassed by the rather broad term environment and behavior. The goal of the series is to begin the process of integration of knowledge on environmental and behavioral topics so that researchers and professionals can have material from diverse sources accessible in a single publication. The field of environment and behavior is broad and interdisciplinary with researchers drawn from a variety of traditional disciplines such as psychology sociology anthropology geography and other social and behavioral sciences and from the biological and life sciences of medicine psychiatry biology and ethology. The interdisciplinary quality of the field is also reflected in the extensive involvement of environmental professionals from architecture urban planning landscape architecture interior design and other fields such as recreation and natural resources to name just a few. At present the field has a somewhat chaotic flavor with research being carried out by a variety of scholars who publish in a multitude of outlets. Many researchers and practitioners are unaware of the state of knowledge regarding a specific topic because of the unavailability of integrated reference materials. There are only a handful of books dealing with environment and behavior most of them unintegrated collections of readings with only an occasional systematic analysis of some facet of the field.

Life-Span Developmental Psychology John R. Nesselrode, Hayne W. Reese, 2013-09-11 Life Span Developmental Psychology: Methodological Issues is based on a conference held at West Virginia University in 1971 that focused on the general topic of Life Span Developmental Psychology. The conference provided a forum for the discussion of a variety of methodological issues related to the study of developmental processes over the life span. The principal objectives of the Life Span Conference have been not only to explicate by successive approximation the range of empirical phenomena with which a life span developmental psychology should be concerned but also to explore issues about theory measurement design and data analysis which bear upon it The book opens with a chapter on ethical issues in developmental psychology This is followed by separate chapters on topics such as cross cultural research in developmental psychology the implications of the two models that have had the greatest impact on developmental psychology the mechanistic reactive organism model and the organismic active organism model and research strategies and measurement methods for investigating human development

Transcendence and Non-Naturalism in Early Chinese Thought Alexis McLeod, Joshua R. Brown, 2020-09-03

Contemporary scholars of Chinese philosophy often presuppose that early China possessed a naturalistic worldview devoid of any non natural concepts such as transcendence Challenging this presupposition head on Joshua R Brown and Alexis McLeod argue that non naturalism and transcendence have a robust and significant place in early Chinese thought This book reveals that non naturalist positions can be found in early Chinese texts in topics including conceptions of the divine cosmogony and apophatic philosophy Moreover by closely examining a range of early Chinese texts and providing comparative readings of a number of Western texts and thinkers the book offers a way of reading early Chinese Philosophy as consistent with the religious philosophy of the East and West including the Abrahamic and the Brahmanistic religions Co written by a philosopher and theologian this book draws out unique insights into early Chinese thought highlighting in particular new ways to consider a range of Chinese concepts including tian dao li and you wu Psychological
