Nature And Spirit An Essay In Ecstatic Naturalism:

Nature and Spirit Robert S. Corrington, 1992 Phenomenological descriptions are made of the human process and its struggles between its finite and transcendent dimensions The self is located within both natural and interpretive i e hermeneutic communities and the semiotic implications of both types of community are detailed The phenomenon of worldhood i e that which is not a world or within the world but which locates and encompasses all worlds is examined from the standpoint of a transformation of Heidegger s formulations The pragmatic and semiotic dimensions of worldhood are defined in the context of an enlarged conception of nature Finally God s several dimensions are explored as they relate to each other and to the world within which they are often embedded Process theology is challenged for its failure to explore what the author considers to be the fragmented yet self transfiguring quality of the divine life BOOK JACKET

Nature and Spirit Robert Corrington, 2021 Nature and Spirit An Essay in Ecstatic Naturalism develops an enlarged conception of nature that in turn calls for a transformed naturalism Online more descriptive naturalisms such as those by Dewey Santayana and Buchler ecstatic naturalism works out of the fundamental ontological difference between nature naturing natura naturans and nature natured natura naturata This difference underlies all other variations within a generic conception of nature The spirit operates within a generic conception of nature The spirit operates within a fragmented nature and has its own unique locations Ecstatic naturalism does not eulogize spirit nor impose a process theodicy upon nature as a whole but carefully describes the ways in which spirit emerges from finite locations within the world Methodologically the text radically regrounds phenomenology so that it can work more closely with a metaphysics seeking the most generic forms of nature The move from a transcendental phenomenology which rests upon a profound misconception of the parcel of a radicalized naturalism makes it possible to show how all orders of relevance are related to nature and to the spirit This in turn relocates the human process with its dialectical tension between finitude and transcendence and places the self fully within the emergent structures of the community of interpreters as that community lives out of hope The concept of worldhood is regrounded in pragmatic and semiotic terms thus putting pressure on Heidegger s formulations Peirce s pragmatic categorical structure is used to show how worldhood differs from any other order within the world The correlation of the potencies of nature which are presemiotic and preordinal wit the orders of the world itself is possible only through an ordinal phenomenology that remains attuned to the fundamental difference between nature naturing the potencies and nature natured the orders of the world Finally the text redefines the divine natures in the light of an ecstatic naturalism that sees god as an order within the world that experiences the fragmented quality of nature Process theology is challenged for its inability to grasp the tensions between god and the encompassing Four divine natures are laid bare as they relate to nature and to each other The work concludes with a description of the divine life in the face of the encompassing A Semiotic Theory of Theology and Philosophy Robert S. Corrington, 2000-11-09 The concern of this work is with developing an alternative to standard categories in theology and philosophy especially in terms of how they deal with nature Avoiding the polemics of much contemporary reflection on nature it shows how we are connected to nature through the unconscious and its unique way of reading and processing signs Spinoza's key distinction between natura naturans and natura naturata serves as the governing framework for the treatise Suggestions are made for a post Christian way of understanding religion Robert S Corrington's work represents the first sustained attempt to bring together the fields of semiotics depth psychology pragmatism and a post Monotheistic theology of nature Its focus is on how signification functions in human and non human orders of infinite nature Our connection with the infinite is described in detail especially as it relates to the use of sign systems

God, Value, and Nature Fiona Ellis, 2014 This book takes on board the assumption that we should be naturalists and argues that the position can accommodate the idea of God Naturalism and theism are no longer logically incompatible and the fashionable atheism of our times is shown to depend upon an unwarranted commitment to scientism and a questionable conception of God

Ecstatic Naturalism Robert S. Corrington, 1994 Semiotic theory which has restricted its focus largely to human forms of significations is transformed by Robert S Corrington into a semiotics of nature itself Corrington situates the divide between nature naturing and nature natured within the contest of classical American pragmatism and postmodern psychoanalysis At the heart of this new metaphysics is an insistence that all signs participate in larger orders of meaning that are natural and religious Meanings embodied in nature point beyond nature to the mystery inherent in positioned codes and signs

Nature's Religion Robert S. Corrington, 1997 Corrington argues that signs and our various transference fields can and do connect us with fully natural religious powers that are not of our own making thereby opening up a path past the Western monotheisms to a capacious religion of nature With a foreword by Robert C Neville Nature's Religion is essential reading for philosophers of religion scholars of the psychology of religion and theologians

A 21st Century Debate on Science and Religion Shiva Khaili, Fraser Watts, Harris Wiseman, 2017-08-21 The progress of modern science and technology has led to remarkable insights into the nature of the universe and of human life These insights have challenged and transformed former traditional worldviews and narratives This book explores and addresses the challenges that arise at the interface of science and religion in the 21st century How does science affect the way that religion is perceived Do modern scientific findings confirm or invalidate the perspective of faith How does science lead religious persons to revise the way they understand their faith and its practices Is a mutually respectful and mutually beneficial dialogue possible between science and faith Drawing from many disciplines psychology theology philosophy history cognitive science education this book considers the crucial questions of how science and religion can help shape our worldviews and ways of life today

A Philosophy of Sacred Nature Leon Niemoczynski, Nam T. Nguyen, 2014-11-12 A Philosophy of Sacred Nature introduces Robert Corrington's philosophical thought ecstatic naturalism which seeks to recognize nature's self transforming potential Ecstatic naturalism is a philosophical theological perspective deeply seated in a semiotic cosmology and psychosemiosis and it radically and profoundly probes into the mystery of nature s perennial self fissuring of nature natured and nature naturing Edited by Leon Niemoczynski and Nam T Nguyen this collection aims to allow readers to see what can be done with ecstatic naturalism and what directions interpretations and creative uses that doing can take A thorough exploration of the prospects of ecstatic naturalism this book will appeal to scholars of Continental philosophy religious naturalism and American pragmatism

In Our Own Image Wesley J. Wildman, 2017-12-15 In Our Own Image is a work of comparative philosophical theology It is a study of the roles anthropomorphism and apophaticism play in the construction of conceptual models of ultimate reality Leading scholar Wesley J Wildman considers whether we create our ideas of God He offers a comparative analysis of three major classes of ultimacy models paying particular attention to the way those classes are impacted by anthropomorphism while tracing their relative strengths and weaknesses Wildman provides a constructive theological argument on behalf of an apophatic understanding of ultimate reality showing how this understanding subsumes challenges and relates ultimacy models from the three classes being compared He describes and compares competing ultimacy models fairly and sympathetically The conclusion is that all models cognitively break on the shoals of ultimate reality but that the ground of being class of models carries us further than the others in regard to the comparative criteria that matter most

Crosby, Charley D. Hardwick, 1996 This collection of essays is selected from presentations at the Second International Conference on Philosophical Theology the University of St Andrews St Andrews Scotland August 1993 The Conference sponsored by the Highlands Institute for American Religious Thought Highlands North Carolina includes scholars from the United States and other countries The Highlands Institute emphasizes the interface between theology and philosophy with attention to theological efforts utilizing the American philosophical tradition the history and development of religious thought in America themes relevant to the Chicago School of Theology and Naturalism in American religious thought The St Andrews Conference focused on relations between religious thought and ecology but other religious and philosophical topics were also addressed

Earth Works Jim Dwyer, 1996 Earth Works is the only comprehensive guide available to the best new and classic books about nature and the environment for adults and YAs It provides descriptive entries for trade nonfiction and scholarly or technical books and a significant number of fiction titles which are of interest to both the general public and specialists Each chapter defines its scope then identifies key books or authors and refers to notable related works in other chapters

Nature's Sublime Robert S. Corrington, 2013-03-14 Nature s Sublime uses a radical new form of phenomenology to probe into the deepest traits of the human process in its individual social religious and aesthetic dimensions Starting with the serving process the essay describes the role of signs and symbols in intra and interpersonal communication At the heart of the human use of signs is a creative tension between religious symbols and the novel symbols created in the various arts A contrast is made between natural communities which flatten out and reject novel forms of semiosis and communities of interpretation which welcomes creative and enriched signs and symbols The normative claim is made that religious sign symbol systems have a tendency toward tribalism and violence while the various spheres of the aesthetic are comparatively non tribal or even deliberately anti tribal The concept experience of beauty and the sublime is meant to replace that of religious revelation The sublime is not merely an internal mode of attunement contra Kant but comes from the very depths of nature in the potencies of nature naturing
