Minoan Crafts Tools Techniques An Introduction Studies In Mediterranean Archaeology 92:

Knowledge Networks and Craft Traditions in the Ancient World Katharina Rebay-Salisbury, Ann Brysbaert, Lin Foxhall, 2014-08-07 This edited volume investigates knowledge networks based on materials and associated technologies in Prehistoric Europe and the Classical Mediterranean. It emphasises the significance of material objects to the construction, maintenance and collapse of networks of various forms which are central to explanations of cultural contact and change. Focusing on the materiality of objects and on the way in which materials are used adds a multidimensional quality to networks. The properties, functions and styles of different materials are intrinsically linked to the way in which knowledge flows and technologies are transmitted. Transmission of technologies from one craft to another is one of the main drivers of innovation whilst sharing knowledge is enabled and limited by the extent of associated social networks in place. Archaeological research has often been limited to studying objects made of one particular material in depth be it lithic materials, ceramics, textiles, glass, metal, wood or others. The knowledge flow and transfer between crafts that deal with different materials have often been overlooked. This book takes a fresh approach to the reconstruction of knowledge networks by integrating two or more craft traditions in each of its chapters. The authors, well known experts and early career researchers, provide concise case studies that cover a wide range of materials. The scope of the book extends from networks of craft traditions to implications for society in a wider sense. Materials, objects and the technologies used to make and distribute them are interwoven with social meaning. People make objects but objects make people. The materiality of objects shapes our understanding of the world and our place within it. In this book objects are treated as clues to social networks of different sorts that can be contrasted and compared both spatially and diachronically.

Experimental Archaeology: Making, Understanding, Story-telling Christina Souyoudzoglou-Haywood, Aidan O'Sullivan, 2019-09-30 In this book, based on the proceedings of a two day workshop on experimental archaeology at the Irish Institute of Hellenic Studies at Athens in 2017, scholars, artists and craftspeople explore how people in the past made things, used and discarded them from prehistory to the Middle Ages.

Tracing Prehistoric Social Networks through Technology Ann Brysbaert, 2014-05-30 This volume investigates smaller and larger networks of contacts within and across the Aegean and nearby regions, covering periods from the Neolithic until Classical times (6000–323 BC). It explores the world of technologies, crafts and archaeological 'left overs' in order to place social and technological networks in their larger economic and political contexts. By investigating ways of production, transport, distribution and consumption, this book covers a chronologically large period in order to expand our understanding of wider cultural developments inside the geographical boundaries of the Aegean and its regions of contact in the east Mediterranean. This book brings together scholars' expertise in a variety of different fields, ranging from historical archaeology using textual evidence, archaeometry, geoarchaeology, experimental work, archaeobotany and archaeozoology. Chapters in this volume study and contextualize archaeological remains and explore networks of crafts, people, craft traditions or people who employed various technologies to survive Central questions in this context are how and why traditions techniques and technologies change or remain stable or where and why cross cultural boundaries developed and disintegrated The Semantic Field of Cutting Tools in Biblical Hebrew Aaron Koller,2023-09-29 This volume is concerned with field of cutting tools in Biblical Hebrew texts and deals with the interface of philological semantic and archeological evidence Beyond Thalassocracies Evi Gorogianni,Peter Pavuk,Luca Girella,2016-08-31 Beyond Thalassocracies aims to evaluate and rethink the manner in which archaeologists approach understand and analyze the various processes associated with culture change connected to interregional contact using as a test case the world of the Aegean during the Late Bronze Age c 1600 1100 BC The 14 chapters compare and contrast various aspects of the phenomena of Minoanisation and Mycenaeanisation both of which share the basic underlying defining feature of material culture change in communities around the Aegean This change was driven by trends manifesting themselves in the dominant palatial communities of each period of the Bronze Age Over the past decade our understanding of how these processes developed and functioned has changed considerably Whereas current discussions on Minoanisation have already been informed by more recent theoretical trends especially in material culture studies and post colonial theory the process of Mycenaeanisation is still very much conceptualized along traditional lines of explanation Since these phenomena occurred in chronological sequence it makes sense that any reappraisal of their nature and significance should target those regions of the Aegean basin that were affected by both processes highlighting their similarities and differences Thus in the present volume we focus on the southern and eastern Aegean in particular the Cyclades Dodecanese and the north eastern Aegean islands

From Mine to Microscope Ian Freestone,Thilo Rehren,2009-04-09 These twenty papers dedicated to Mike Tite focus upon the interpretation of ancient artefacts and technologies particularly through the application of materials analysis Instruments from the human eye to mass spectrometry provide insights into a range of technologies ranging from classical alum extraction to Bronze Age wall painting and cover materials as diverse as niello flint bronze glass and ceramic Ranging chronologically from the Neolithic through to the medieval period and geographically from Britain to China these case studies provide a rare overview which will be of value to students teachers and researchers with an interest in early material culture

Cooper, Diane Fortenberry, 2017 In 1990 the University of Minnesota carried out an architectural survey of the standing remains of the Bronze Age Palace of Nestor discovered by Carl Blegen in 1939 and excavated from 1952 to 1966 While the first stone by stone state plan of the building was being created it became clear that some of the architectural assumptions about the structure and its history could not be correct Over the next eight years the Blegen period backfill covering the site was systematically removed so that a complete architectural plan could be prepared The work was carried out using the protocols of an archaeological excavation Although only backfill was removed numerous unexpected finds were recovered ranging from discarded Linear B tablets and wall painting fragments to roof tiles and pottery in addition a detailed study of the architecture revealed evidence for startling new conclusions about the structure of the palace and the history of the site Part I New Studies at the Palace of Nestor With contributions by Todd M Brenningmeyer Frederick A Cooper Joshua N Distler Caitlin Downey Anne B Hollond Eleni M Konstantinidi Syvridi George Otto Marquardt Shawn A Ross Part II The Architecture of the Palace of Nestor by Michael C Nelson Bronzeworking on Late Minoan Crete Lena Hakulin, 2004 Bronzeworking was an important industry in the late Bronze Age Aegean and this thesis draws on a large database of material related to Late Minoan bronze objects raw materials evidence for workshops and so on The Assemblage of Bone and Ivory Artifacts from Caesarea Maritima, Israel 1st-13th Centuries CE Etan Ayalon, 2005 This research deals with all skeletal material finds bone ivory and antler from the work of the three teams excavating at Caesarea Maritima Israel over recent years the Israel Antiquities Authority team the combined expedition team of the Rekanati Center for Maritime Studies University of Haifa and the Department of History University of Maryland in the United States and the expedition of the Zienman Institute of Archaeology University of Haifa The assemblage includes around 4 000 finds and fragments a multi period collection that serves as a solid basis for a thorough discussion and comparison with similar finds from Israel and abroad To these items were added the bone objects displayed in the Caesarea Museum at Sdot Yam surface finds that include some items with no typological parallels within the main assemblage All the finds are illustrated and catalogued Vitreous Materials in the Late Bronze Age Aegean Sheffield Centre for Aegean Archaeology. Round Table, 2008 The explosion of research in the field of ancient and historic glasses has opened up glass studies in recent years However our deeper understanding of the technology and provenance of Bronze Age Egyptian and Roman glasses in the Mediterranean has not been mirrored by our studies of glasses and other vitreous materials found in the Late Bronze Age Aegean There are few studies which collate the material culture of the region and still fewer which explore the patterning of vitreous materials in the landscape Our knowledge of where the material originated and who used it is still incomplete Therefore in 2005 a group of scholars in the fields of glass studies and Aegean prehistory came together as part of the Sheffield Centre for Aegean Archaeology s Round Table discussions to bring the subject up to date The central themes to this discussion were based upon provenance occurrence and the role of vitreous materials in the Late Bronze Age Mediterranean Nine papers are presented from the discussions by experts in Bronze Age glass and faience and Aegean specialists who examine a fascinating and diverse selection of topics surrounding the production movement use and role of vitreous materials in the Late Bronze Age Aegean The contributions from John Bennet Karen Foster Paul Nicholson George Nightingale Marina Panagiotaki Mark Peters Thilo Rehren Sue Sherratt and Mike Tite bring together our current understanding of these materials and their role in the societies who used them Minoan Crafts R.
