Miracles in Enlightenment England Jane Shaw, 2006-01-01 The Enlightenment considered an age of rationalism is not normally associated with miracles In this intriguing book however Jane Shaw presents accounts of inscrutable miracles that occurred to ordinary worshippers in early modern England She considers the reactions of intellectuals scientists and physicians to these miraculous events and through them explores the relations between popular and elite culture of the time Miraculous events in England between the 1650s and the 1750s were experienced mainly not by Catholics but by Protestants The book looks at the political and social context of these events as well as interpretations and explanations of them by scientists the Court and the Church as well as by preachers pamphleteers friends and neighbors Shaw links the lived religion of the time to intellectual history and amends the hitherto received view The religious practice of ordinary people was as crucial to the development of Enlightenment thought as the philosophical and theological writings of the elite A history of disability in England Simon Jarrett, 2023-12-01 Throughout history numerous individuals with disabilities have had to pit themselves against huge obstacles placed in their way because of the type of person they were born as the type of person they became through accident illness or circumstances or the type of person they have been perceived as This book tells the story of how disabled people have done this how they have seen themselves how they have been perceived and treated by others and how they have influenced society People with disabilities have always been a part of English society and this concise thousand year history ranges from the surprisingly integrated communities of the medieval and early modern periods to the institutionalisation of the 19th and 20th centuries Sometimes the history of disability is described as a hidden history This book argues that it is no such thing The history of people with disabilities is often in front of our eyes yet we frequently choose to ignore it or simply do not see it Accounts of daily life events art literature family histories and political debate have always featured people with disabilities who are there for all to see but too often observers particularly non disabled observers gaze straight past them The miracle of England: an account of her rise to prominence and present position André Maurois, 1937 Contextualizing Miracles in the Christian West, 1100-1500 Matthew M.
